REPUBLICANS CHECK DEMOCRATS' BUDGET MOVE

Sweden Suggest Russians and Finns Arrange Armistice

Soviet Is Said to Have Demanded Surrender of Karelian Isthmus and Other Areas

Acts Are Cautious

Sweden Won't Say That Stalin Offered Peace Terms

Stockholm, March 7 (AP)—Sweden is seeking to arrange an armistice in the Russian-Finnish war, usually reliable sources said today, adding that Russian peace terms recently had been presented to Finland.

The exact nature of the terms is still the subject of speculation, but there were unconfirmed reports that Russia demanded surrender of the Karelian Isthmus, Viipuri, Lake Ladoga and part of the far northern Petsamo area.

An armistice, it was said, would be followed by further efforts to arrange a peace settlement. Official Swedish circles said they could neither deny nor confirm reports that Sweden had submitted peace terms from Joseph Stalin to the Helsinki government.

One theory was that negotiations thus far had proceeded through the Russian minister to Sweden, Madame Alexandra Kolontay, the Finnish minister here, Elias Erkkö, who is former Finnish foreign minister, and the Swedish foreign office.

Reported in Stockholm
Significance also was seen in reports that Dr. Juho Paasikivi, Finnish diplomat, is in Stockholm. He headed the Finnish delegation in unsuccessful pre-war negotiations at Moscow on Russian territorial demands which Finland found a threat to her independence.

If peace negotiations actually are under way, Scandinavian political quarters assume that Berlin also is interested.

There are unconfirmed reports even that the German minister to Finland, Dr. Wipert von Blucher, has conferred in Helsinki with a representative of the Finnish generalissimo, Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, and Finnish government officials.

According to the current reports, Stalin has called for surrender of the Karelian Isthmus to Russia, along with the city of Viipuri, all of Lake Ladoga, and some territory in the Petsamo district on the Arctic coast.

Sweden's interest in any peace negotiations is believed to have been prompted by the increasingly difficult position of this country in view of her stated policy as regards passage of foreign aid to Finland and new reports that Finland is considering an appeal directly to the western powers for military assistance.

Ready to Intervene
As for Germany, it has become the popular view that the Reich would be ready to intervene as soon as Russia gained some outstanding military success in Finland.

Reported conversations in Berlin between the noted Swedish explorer, Sven Hedin, and Adolf Hitler and his foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, are regarded by many observers as directly associated with the supposed German-Swedish interest in seeing the war in Finland settled.

Official sources declined to discuss reports that Germany had warned Sweden that transit of volunteers for Finland would be regarded as unneutral.

The impression therefore prevails here that Sweden is striving for a peaceful solution of the war in Finland before arrival of foreign volunteers for the Finnish cause further complicated Sweden's own status.

Gross debt $42,283,330,465.84. Increase over previous day $2,751,728.84. Gold assets $18,220,064,959.42.

Held for Grand Jury

New York, March 7 (AP)—Frank Manion, former Rockland county deputy sheriff, is held for the federal grand jury today, accused of taking part in a $1,000,000 illicit liquor conspiracy. Richard J. Burke, assistant U. S. attorney, said that Manion, 36-year-old one-time state trooper, had allegedly accepted bribes for furnishing "protection" to bootleggers. Burke said that the ring operated stills in Rockland, Dutchess, Orange and other counties.

British Carry Out Thousand Sorties

London, March 7 (AP)—Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood told the House of Commons today the royal air force had carried out more than a thousand sorties into German territory by day and night since the outbreak of war.

Sir Kingsley spoke in presenting secret air force estimates which he said involved "the greatest expenditure of this kind in Great Britain's history."

In surveying the air war to date he said 44 German aircraft had been brought down around British coasts "without a single loss on our side" and many more had been forced down in neutral territory or upon the sea.

Dr. Finley Dies In New York City

Editor Emeritus of Times and Educator Was 76; Dies in His Sleep

DR. JOHN H. FINLEY
New York, March 7 (AP)—Dr. John H. Finley, educator and editor emeritus of the New York Times, died in his sleep early today. Dr. Finley, who was 76, recently underwent an operation for hernia in the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, but his rugged physique apparently brought about a quick recovery.

He returned to his home at one Lexington avenue about three weeks ago. It was there he died. John Huston Finley was an educator by virtue of inherited talent but preferred to be an editor. He alternated between the two fields through most of his mature life, having been president of Knox College, the College of the City of New York and New York state commissioner of education when he wasn't directing magazines or writing editorials for newspapers.

His father, grandfather and great-grandfather were farmers, yet he was the fifth college president in the Finley family.

Born in Illinois
He was born at Grand Ridge, LaSalle county, Illinois, on October 19, 1863, the son of James G. and Margaret McCombs Finley and fifth in descent from the Rev. James Finley, who came from Ireland in 1734. He went through (Continued on Page 22)

Merchants to Hold 'Spring Opening' Uptown March 14

Decision Is Reached This Morning at Meeting; Will Veil Windows as Usual

Group Is Chosen

Business Men Also Endorse Apple Blossom Festival in May

The annual "Spring Opening" under auspices of the Uptown Business Men's Association will be held Thursday, March 14, when store windows will be unveiled to disclose to the shopping public new spring merchandise. As usual the unveiling will take place in the evening and the stores will not be open that evening for business.

At a meeting attended by 20 representatives of uptown businesses this morning, it was voted to hold the "Spring Opening" again this year despite the fact that Easter comes exceptionally early and there is some likelihood of bad weather.

In charge of the "Spring Opening" event will be Robert Clements, Phil Johnson, Howard Shurter and P. S. Ramsay, the committee to which details of the event were left.

The association members voted to veil their windows on the afternoon of Thursday, March 14, while the spring displays are being installed and later in the evening at a prescribed signal the veils will be dropped. Details of the "Spring Opening" will be announced later.

With an attendance of 20, the meeting was one of the best attended in some time. President William Hardenbergh opened the meeting and thanked the membership and committee for the co-operation during the past year. He also expressed his thanks of the association to James H. Betts, delegate of the association to the West of the Hudson Association, and for the splendid reports which have been given on progress.

E. L. Davey, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of new officers: President, Louis Weiner; vice president, James H. Betts, and for reelection as secretary and treasurer, Al Flanagan. The report of the committee was adopted and the new officers unanimously elected.

First on his program when Mr. Weiner assumed office was the "Spring Opening" question. Next came a report on the benefits of the Home Bureau Consumer's Research meeting held. James H. Betts made a report and at the suggestion of James Rowe it was the expression of the Business Men's Association that this become an annual event. A recommendation was made that the meeting be held next year in the evening so that more people would take advantage of it.

A report on the progress of the formation of the West of the Hudson Association was made by James H. Betts, who also spoke on a movement for the formation of an Ulster County Council, Inc., an association for the advancement of publicity for the county and also for the purpose of coordinating events and raising funds for the promotion of county affairs such as festivals, sports events, publishing and circulation of publicity pamphlets, etc. It was (Continued on Page 22)

Village Landmarks Change Hands in Property Deal

A half a block of Woodstock's main business street changed hands in a real estate transaction yesterday. The purchase made by Karl Cousins includes the former food shop, the Post Office, the Elwyn home and at the extreme right Cousins' store, all shown above. Other buildings in the rear of the Elwyn home, including a studio and garage also were involved in the deal.

Valuable Woodstock Parcel Is Bought by Karl Cousins

Property Is Situated in Heart of Town's Business District; Plans Changes

New York, March 7 (AP)—Martin T. Manton, former presiding judge of the U. S. circuit court of appeals, surrendered today to the United States marshal to begin a two year prison term for selling justice.

Manton, his face cast in its usual scowl, went to the United States court house at 9:25 a. m. and walked directly to the office of Leo Lowenthal, the marshal. He is to serve his sentence in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., where numerous men on whom he once passed judgment have paid their penalty for breaking the law.

The former jurist, who is approaching 60, was convicted last June 3, Federal Judge Calvin Chesnut of Maryland, who presided at the trial, said the case was without precedent in 150 years of American jurisprudence.

Proposed Changes
Mr. Cousins informed The Freeman that he will make extensive improvements to the parcel, but his plans are not altogether definite. If his present ideas are carried out, Mr. Cousins said alterations would include the extension of the Carey shop and a new store front. Between the Elwyn house and the post office Mr. Cousins proposes to erect a store for his own radio and radio appliance business, and in so doing will take eight feet from the present dwelling. The food shop also will be given a modern front.

As far as possible Mr. Cousins plans to respect the present line of the buildings in regard to their frontage. He proposes to do nothing to the post office at present and suggested that any changes there would be made only after consultation and at the request of the United States post office department.

Mr. Cousins will ask for bids immediately so that work might begin within the month, if possible. He also said the transaction in no way affected the Elwyn home.

Welles Holds Talks With French Leaders

Paris, March 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt's fact-finding emissary, Sumner Welles, was closeted for an hour and forty minutes today with Premier Daladier who has vowed to crush the present German regime.

Plunging into a crowded three-day schedule for his Paris visit, the undersecretary of state called on President Albert Lebrun before meeting the premier at his war office headquarters.

Welles already had surveyed the German and Italian attitudes toward the present war in visits to Berlin and Rome. His next stop will be London after talking with French chiefs of state as well as the Polish government-in-exile in France.

Southbridge Is Out for Record

Massachusetts Town Has 1,000 Days Without Motor Fatality

Southbridge, Mass., March 7 (AP)—Southbridge started the second thousand days today.

The town—which has 4,500 automobiles and a population of 18,000 persons—completed 1,000 days without an automobile fatality at midnight last night and Police Chief Ulric Brault immediately commented:

"We are working on 2,000 days now."

His police force was much more excited. Members of yesterday's duty shift voluntarily stayed on duty until midnight to make sure that no accident occurred. Congratulations for the achievement came from the National Safety Council and Governor Saltonstall.

The town, horrified by an accident in which three persons burned to death, began its crusade against fatal accidents in June, 1937. The size of the police force was increased; all bicycles were registered; all main streets were made boulevards—stop streets; a drive against illegal parking was begun and "no fix" became the rule on tags.

Determined now to keep it going, town fathers will ask the town meeting Monday night to approve installation of floodlights at all downtown intersections. There (Continued on Page 17)

House Group Asks Congress Replace N. L. R. B. Staff

Chairman Smith Proposes Action; Says Changes Not Aligned Against Fundamental Idea

Washington, March 7 (AP)—The majority of a special House committee asked Congress today to replace the three members of the National Labor Board.

Chairman Smith (D-Va.) proposed this action, and 16 companion amendments to the Wagner Labor Act, in behalf of himself and Representatives Halleck (R-Ind.) and Routhahn (R-Ohio). Representatives Healey (D-Mass.) and Murdock (D-Utah) disagreed with the majority.

The suggested changes, Smith said, are not intended to affect the fundamental principle of collective bargaining in the Wagner Act but, he said, would define the work of the new administrative body more clearly and eliminate cause of some of the dissatisfaction expressed about the present board.

Board members now are Chairman J. Warren Madden, Edwin E. Smith and William M. Leiserson. Madden and Smith have been the particular targets of criticism in the course of the Smith committee's hearings since last September.

Committee's Amendments

The committee's amendments would:

Abolish the present board and create a new one of three members, with not more than two belonging to the same political party.

Separate the prosecuting and judicial functions of the board and create a new office of administrator to handle many of the board's present functions.

Permit the board to function only as a judge, with the exception that it would continue to have the power to order a collective bargaining election.

Make mandatory the issuance of subpoenas for appearances at hearings upon request either of an employer, worker or union.

Permit court review of board decisions in representation cases.

Forbid the board to initiate determination of collective bargaining units; only the employer or employees could request that action.

Once an election is held, forbid other elections in the same plant for one year.

Relax present prohibitions, to permit an employer to discuss labor situations with his workers.

Leaders Say Plan Sound And Honest

Democrats Shout 'Sham' at Assembly Majority but Vote to Restore Cut Fails

Debate Is Hot

Republicans Insist They Have Enough Votes for Victory

Albany, N. Y., March 7 (AP)—A final Democratic assault in the Assembly to restore $5,625,000 to New York's slashed $391,100,000 budget fell today before a near-solid Republican defense, determined to pass an "economy" program over Governor Lehman's stern protests.

The vote, regarded as a test of the balloting on the majority's entire 1940-41 financial plan expected before nightfall, left Democrats strictly on the defensive in a battle of words that brought minority accusations of "sham" savings and GOP assertions their cuts are "honest and sound."

The Democratic thrust to restore a $1,850,000 education cut fell before a vote of 66 yeas to 79 nays—ten short of the number required for passage. A few New York city Republicans, acknowledging opposition of constituents to the reduction, voted with the minority.

Other Democratic amendments to restore a $3,000,000 relief cut, other "economies" and substitute the governor's proposal to take $10,000,000 from highways, were defeated by votes that varied but slightly from the first "test" ballot.

In the main budget argument, Democratic Assembly Minority Leader Irwin Steingut reiterated the majority's estimate of revenue is a product of "wishful thinking" and predicted a $10,000,000 deficit by July 1, 1941.

"I warn you," shouted Steingut, "that unless we pass a balanced budget we will be sacrificing the welfare of the state on the altar of the Republican party's political strategy."

He termed the $1,850,000 cut in state aid for education as making public schools "once more the victim of Republican party strategy" and labelled other cuts and revenue estimates as "short sighted" and "a pipe dream, pure and simple."

"The purported savings are a sham," he declared. "The Republican party will never learn."

Debate Acrimonious

Throughout acrimonious debate, Republicans proclaimed they have sufficient votes in both Senate and Assembly to pass their program by nightfall over the governor's strenuous objections.

The minority Democrats after calling a recess for a brief conference to the Republican bills in an unsuccessful effort to restore the $1,850,000 cut in education and $3,000,000 for home relief.

At the same time, Steingut demanded enactment of the governor's program reducing highway appropriations by $10,000,000—a move which opponents claimed would hit upstate Republican areas.

"The issue" Steingut told the lawmakers, "is whether you are going to sacrifice children or highways in your demands for cuts."

Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat, Republican chairman of the ways and means committee, denounced the accusations and maintained the Republican program's estimates of incoming revenue—termed "hocus pocus" by the governor—are "honest and forthright."

"I am sorry," he said, referring to the blasted Democratic-Republican political truce, "that this program of cooperation could not be continued but this is an honest budget as submitted by the Republican conference. As far as our estimates are concerned, they are going to stand up."

Takes Up Criticism
Point by point, Moffat took up the governor's criticism of the majority's fiscal plan and with lengthy statistics sought to show the $3,000,000 relief cut is "reasonable," a withholding of localities' shares of the bank tax are "conservative," and the estimate of revenues from delinquent levies "honest."

Asserting that the Republican program answered taxpayers' demands for governmental economy and made a proposed $15,000,000 personal income tax increase unnecessary, Moffat added:

"There is no hocus pocus about it. This is an honest program. We want no New Deal methods of financing. Our efforts have (Continued on Page 20)

S. S. Queen Elizabeth Is Safe in Harbor

Greatest Liner Begins Daring Dash to U. S.

The world's greatest liner, the still-uncompleted Queen Elizabeth, steams down to sea from the Clyde basin in tow of a puffing tugboat to begin her sensational dash toward the safety of New York harbor. Onlookers watch from the Scottish shore as the liner, helped by her tugs, noses carefully along the narrow channel. At a bend, the Queen's bow swung toward the bank, but tugs pulled the vessel back into the channel. Photo was cabled from London to New York.

World's Biggest Liner Misses Slack Tide; Is Here to Avoid German Bombs

New York, March 7 (AP)—Britain's new 85,000-ton liner Queen Elizabeth, completing one of the strangest maiden voyages in maritime history after running the U-boat gantlet, dropped anchor in the safety of New York Harbor today with no visible guns on deck but protected by a mysterious new anti-mine cable.

Observers were at a loss to understand how the cable operated, since it surrounded the ship high above the water—with no apparent drop-net into the water for a sweep effect.

A member of the crew added to the mystery, when, asked if he had been afraid of submarines, he shouted back with a laugh to newsmen in a tugboat alongside: "No, they keep away from us!"

The British tar who acted as a long-distance spokesman for the dozen odd crew members visible on deck or at open portholes said it had been a "very nice trip—lovely."

Wang Ching-Wei Predicts Piecemeal Pacification of China by Japanese

By Clark Lee

Shanghai, March 7 (AP)—Wang Ching-Wei, speaking softly in the inner reaches of his chateau-style home in Shanghai's Badlands section, predicted today the piecemeal pacification of China under the government he expects to head for Japan.

The slender Chinese, who was premier of the Chinese Nationalist government before breaking with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, said that his Japanese-sponsored regime would be inaugurated probably late this month or early in April.

My admission to his home, which is guarded like a fortress by Chinese and Japanese to prevent (Continued on Page 20) assassination attempts, followed six weeks of negotiations through Wang's assistants and a promise not to "argue" with Wang's answers on the motives of his present course of cooperation with the Japanese—a course which has led to the Chinese government's denunciation him as a traitor.

In contrast with pictures portraying Wang as vigorous and aggressive, he is actually slight, soft-spoken and catlike in his movements. Except for a modest bulge in the midriff, he looks far younger than his 59 years.

In disclosing some hitherto unknown details of his agreement with Japan, he said establishment of his regime was not expected even by peace movement leaders (Continued on Page 20) providing that discussion did not involve acts or threats of coercion, intimidation or discrimination.

Apply the usual court rules of evidence to all board procedure.

Provide that, in court review of any board decision, the board's findings would be conclusive if based on a preponderance of evidence and unless they were "clearly erroneous."

Revise the declaration of policy in the Wagner Act so that the board could not be encouraged to "unionize" employees against their will.

Forbid the board to reinstate any worker who willfully engaged in violence or unlawful destruction or seizure of property.

Revise the definition of the phrase "bargain collectively" so that neither an employer nor a union would be compelled to reach an agreement or make counter proposals. (The committee majority did not touch on the question of whether a signed contract was necessary to show good faith in collective bargaining.)

Provide that the intermediate report of a trial examiner become final, unless one of the parties to the proceeding took exceptions to it in 20 days.

Exclude employees of farm co-operatives from the act's application.

Forbid the board to entertain any charge of a violation of the Wagner Act more than six months after the violation occurred and decree that back pay could not be awarded to any worker for more than a six-month period.

Abolish the economics division, presently headed by David Sapos.

'Jungle' of 1,000 Acres Is Built as Man's Hobby

Arthur G. McKee of Cleveland, Ohio, known as a builder of gigantic steel mills, also owns perhaps the most beautiful and authentic jungle in the country.

"You might say jungling is my hobby," McKee says. "It began when I bought a 1,000-acre tract near Vero beach in Florida. That was about 20 years ago and it was more or less just a mass of underbrush then."

McKee has peopled his jungle with more than 300 monkeys, apes and deer, and planted rare and unusual trees.

From many parts of the world the Cleveland industrialist brought species of plants and animals.

"I think a person would have to travel at least 2,000 miles through tropical jungles to see the things assembled there," McKee said.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the gardens now is its animal populations, consisting largely of primates from India, Malaya, Africa, Panama, Columbia and other tropical sections.

Rhesus monkeys, chimpanzees, gibbons, ring-tail monkeys and spider monkeys chatter through the palms and bread fruits. Deer drink from the streams and ponds. There is even a Canadian brown bear on the premises.

The gardens have more than 110 different varieties of palms, 40 types of rubber and other tropical trees.

Bird Banding

Some most unusual flights have been recorded through bird banding. For instance, the long-eared owl is not supposed to be much of a migrant, isn't supposed to travel very far. Yet, a long-eared owl banded at Escudido, Calif., was shot at Corbell, Ontario—having traveled a distance of more than 3,000 miles—across the country from south to north and almost across the country from west to east. Perhaps without banding records, according to the American Wildlife Institute, ornithologists would not know that the redhead duck migrates east and west, and vice versa, not north and south, as do most migrants.

Care of Knitted Woollens

To keep knitted woollens in shape after washing, follow these directions carefully: Trace the outline of the garment on muslin. Use only lukewarm water for washing and rinsing (95 degrees, Fahrenheit). Squeeze the garments through the suds and rinse three times. Squeeze—do not wring—until dry. Ease the garment into shape on the muslin pattern. Dry in the shade at room temperature. Do not place on radiator or in hot place to dry. To press or block, pin the garment lightly into place on the muslin tracing. Cover with a dry cloth, on top of that place a damp cloth, and press dry with a moderately hot iron.

Heart-Problem Oracles

Chinese heart-problem oracles, of whom a large number flourish, never advocate divorce as a solution of matrimonial troubles, but always favor some sort of compromise, even if this is obviously impossible. They are influenced by the ancient story of a scholar predestined to greatness, who remained a junior official all his life because he sanctioned a divorce.

Central electric stations in Canada established a new high record in 1939, when the output amounted to 28,350,943,000 kilowatt hours compared with 26,012,805,000 in 1938.

Ronald J. Sadness, being held at the Ulster county jail on a charge of grand larceny in connection with an automobile deal with the Vanderlyn Garage in Ellenville, following his arrest in Miami, Florida, February 22, served time in California on a felony charge, according to information just received by District Attorney N. LeVan Haver.

The check of Sadness's fingerprints at the bureau in Washington show that under the name of Jerry O'Connell he was arrested in Los Angeles in March, 1935, was convicted on a charge of rape, given an intermediate prison sentence of one to 15 years and served 15 months in the county roads. The record shows also that he served a 15 days sentence in the Onondaga county penitentiary in September, 1938, on a charge of being a tramp. He gave the name of Joseph Kane at that time.

February 17 this year he was held at Miami, Fla., for investigation of a bad check charge and shortly after that date was arrested by Sheriff Moloney on the pending grand larceny charge and brought to Kingston, where he has been held pending action of the grand jury. When first apprehended in Miami he went under the name of Rodney D. P. deNemours.

The district attorney says that the investigation of Sadness's record, following the Ellenville transaction, shows that in 1937 and '38 checks written in what has been identified as his handwriting, had been issued in amounts running as high as $10,000.

Previous to making the car purchase in Ellenville Sadness is alleged to have issued a check for $3,125 in favor of Lena R. Tompkins of Kerhonkson in payment for a garage property, one for $819.33 in payment of mortgage and interest due on the same property, another for $72.17 to Lawyer R. G. Cox of Ellenville, for transfer of the property and taxes due. The charge on which he is being held followed the giving to Daniel Vanderlyn of Ellenville of a worthless check in the amount of $1,080 in payment for a 1940 Buick sedan, which Sadness shortly afterward drove down to Florida.

Under the name of deNemours, Sadness was taken into custody in Miami for questioning on a charge of having given to the Miami Chris Craft Co. a worthless check for $7,100 in payment for a cabin cruiser. Just previous to this the Miami Colonial Hotel had made inquiries regarding a check for $2,500 given under the name of Rodney D. P. deNemours.

Free Swimming Lesson Given by Ben Franklin

The Franklin Institute of Philadelphia points out that Benjamin Franklin, printer, patriot, statesman and scientist, once considered throwing it all over to open a swimming school in London.

Franklin wrote to a friend who wanted to know how to swim and told him that confidence was the first essential. To gain confidence Franklin instructed the friend to walk into the water where it deepens gradually, and to turn and face the shore when the level reached the chest, then drop an egg in the water between that point and the shore.

"Then plunge under it (the water) with your eyes open, throwing yourself toward the egg, and endeavoring by the action of your hands and feet against the water to get forward till within reach of it," he wrote. "In this attempt you will find that the water buoy you up against your inclination; that it is not so easy a thing to sink as you imagined; that you cannot but by active force get down to the egg. In this manner you will feel the power of the water to support you."

Model Farm Reaper

In this day when the miniature craze is sweeping the country and people collect everything from cats to clipper ships, a tiny model of a farm reaper, made of brass and black walnut, should make a collector envious. The property of L. W. Meeks of North Dams, Mich., this small machine has drive wheels of brass about four inches in diameter, and a set of knives and reel which are nine inches long and similar to those on modern binders. Kept in a sheet-metal carrying case, it was used back in the seventies by a dealer to demonstrate to his customers. The model demonstrated how grain could be forced in a compact pile, ready for the farmers to bind by hand. When a binder first came on the market, machines like the model were discarded. Now the model is kept in its carrying case just as a reminder of days gone by.

Striping Aids Room's Interior

Striping may be the answer to the housewife's complaint that a plain one-color interior-wall paint job when finished, looks "all right" but yet seems to lack "something." Striping means running narrow bands of paint around the walls, a few inches from and parallel with the wood trim. The width of the stripe, its color, and the distance from the wood trim will usually depend on the size of the room, the amount of decoration required to offset the objectional plainness, and also on the boldness or prominence of the door and window casings.

Most linoleum now on the market is made from a mixture that consists mainly of ground cork and linseed oil, to which color pigment has been added and which is applied to a burlap backing under great pressure.

Berlin Says Liner's Trip Speaks Ill for Anglo Hope

Berlin, March 7 (AP)—In jocular mood concerning the voyage to New York of the new British liner Queen Elizabeth, authorized German sources today commented:

"The stealthy trip into a United States harbor does not speak well for British confidence in victory."

They said, "First the British took gold over there, then apparently other treasures, and forgot to bring back certain historical documents. (Apparently a reference to a copy of England's Magna Charta, deposited in Washington.)

"Now they must pay $1,000 a day docking charges. Why don't they leave the ship in British harbors if they are confident of victory?"

For that matter, they asked, "what is the Queen Elizabeth, anyway? It is not even finished. In fact, it is half a skeleton. Now, the Bremen—that was something!"

(They referred to the German liner Bremen's dash last fall from New York to Murnansk, Russia, and subsequent run home through the British blockade.)

Queen Elizabeth Is Safe in Harbor

superintendent of the Cunard-White Star Lines in New York, one of the three persons permitted to board the Queen Elizabeth at quarantine, said the liner brought only a skeleton crew of between 300 and 400 men and that it was "very nearly finished."

Some of the furnishings, he said, remained to be installed, but the panelwork was completed and the ship's elevators were operating.

Although apparently without guns, the Queen Elizabeth mounted two "pillbox" housings, about five feet high, which may have been used as observation posts to keep watch against submarines.

A United States naval intelligence officer who went down the bay on a government cutter to meet the Queen Elizabeth was among those refused permission to board.

Harold Borer, Cunard-White Star general passenger manager, and a single customs officer were the only men allowed to go on besides Barlow.

Sighted by Plane

New York, March 7 (AP)—Still pursuing a zig-zag course, Britain's new giant liner, Queen Elizabeth, neared the end of her perilous maiden voyage to the wartime safety of New York harbor today.

The British liner was sighted about 7 a. m. by the pilot of a TWA plane.

He said she was about 40 miles out from Fire Island light.

The $5,000-ton, $28,750,000 Queen Elizabeth thus completed what the British hailed as proof of England's mastery of the seas and the Scot's reputation for taciturnity.

For the voyage of this largest potential target for an enemy warship was.

Made without an alarm, and not disclosed until late yesterday.

"Thousands of Clydeside people know the Elizabeth had left her berth nine days ago," exulted the authoritative British Press Association in London, "and the Scottish and national press of Great Britain knew it. Yet the secret was kept."

The secret was kept until the new queen of the seas, christened months ago by the reigning British queen in her own name, was safely within the American neutrality zone.

Is Self-Exile

The world's largest liner comes to New York as a self-exile from England to take refuge from the horrors of war and to join the company of the other great liners too valuable to risk in submarine-infested waters while the smaller, "expedient" ships ply the allied war-time trade.

The new queen moves in and overshadows in size and potential splendor the idling British liner Queen Mary and the French liners Normandie and Ile de France, all laid out "for the duration" at the outset of the war six months ago.

The new but considerably smaller British liner Mauretania was moved out of the North river pier that harbors the Normandie and Queen Mary to make a place for the new queen—and it promised to be a tight fit.

The Mauretania was berthed at the midtown pier of the now idle North German-Lloyd Line from which the Nazi merchant flagship Bremen sped away just before the war began on a hazardous, meandering voyage home, by way of the Russian Arctic port of Murnansk.

Reply to Germans

The Queen Elizabeth's maiden voyage trip was—besides a dash to safety from bombings at home—obviously a British reply to German claims of submarine power and to the boasts of the Nazi high command over the Bremen's circuitous safe passage home on which a British submarine commander claimed he had a chance to destroy it—but held his fire.

"Her arrival in New York," the British Press Association said, of the Queen Elizabeth, "gives Adolf Hitler and Admiral Raeder, chief of the Nazi sea terror campaign, a startling shock in view of the Nazi claim to 'control of the oceans.'"

Nothing was said in England of any convoy or armament that might have helped the new Queen to her rendezvous with her allied sister ships in New York.

May Stay for War

The British believed that she would remain tied up here throughout the war.

When her inside fittings are completed she will be the finest as well as the largest ship afloat. Harbor sources speculated that she would remain in her unfinished stage, to be readily convertible to any special uses as Britain's needs arose. They pointed out also that the luxurious interiors of other idling ships here are naturally deteriorating.

The Queen Elizabeth slipped out of her builder's yards at Clyde-side on February 26 and lay at anchor off the mouth of the Clyde until last Saturday when the dash to America began.

Once at sea, she relied on her potential top speed of 32 knots to outrun any alien belligerent, although her new engines had to be coddled like an automobile snail-though her first 500 miles—"working in."

New York police sent 250 patrolmen and officers to the docks.

350,000 U. S. Citizens Reside on Foreign Soil

How many American citizens live outside the United States? One million? One hundred thousand? Give up? The answer, according to the National Geographic society, is about 350,000 persons exclusive of tourists and transitory visitors. This figure includes an estimated 175,688 Americans in Canada and Newfoundland, the largest single group.

The smallest number reported comes from Arabia, with but 10 resident Americans—or about one to each 100,000 square miles of territory. In South America there are more Americans in Brazil, which has 3,814, than in any other country. Mexico counts 12,840. Latin America, in all, however, has less than 50,000 resident Americans, compared with nearly 85,000 in Europe.

There Italy has the largest share, with more than 38,000 Americans. Picking out a few of the world's present "trouble spots," Palestine, it is recorded, contains 9,000 resident Americans; while in war-hardened China there are reported some 7,700 Americans away from home.

Whitewashed Buildings

In spite of the longer-wearing qualities of paint, many home owners prefer the quaint charm of whitewashed buildings. Many Southern Colonial homes owe much of their picturesque mellowness to their whitewashed brick walls, while whitewashed dining room walls are still sought by many owners of ranch houses. A good formula for making whitewash is to stir 10 pounds of lime into 8 quarts of water. When smooth and creamy, add water in small quantities to obtain the brushing or spraying consistency wanted. A 10-pound sack will make about 4 gallons. Authorities recommend the addition of a little bluing to bring out whiteness, while addition of about four ounces of alum will help prevent the whitewash from rubbing off. One pound of common salt or one pound cement will help make the mixture waterproof.

Angle Street Crossings Present Traffic Hazards Streets that intersect at sharp angles are not only hazards for motor traffic but constitute a good example of land waste as well.

When streets are planned to cross each other or form a "T" at approximately right angles both of these objections are overcome. Square-cornered lots, which are better adapted as sites for residential structures than irregularly shaped lots with sharp-pointed corners, will be assured by this type of street design. The total length of a street system within a subdivision will also be reduced, thus effecting a saving in construction costs.

Many traffic difficulties in suburban districts result from bad street intersections. When a local street enters a major street at an acute angle, visibility is seriously impaired, and traffic has a tendency to move in and out of such streets without reduction of speed.

These two factors are largely responsible for the enormous loss of life due to automobile accidents at street intersections in residential areas. Traffic-control devices are poor substitutes for good street design.

How Three Greatest Liners Are Compared

New York, March 7 (AP)—The statistical comparison of the three greatest ocean liners taking refuge in New York harbor: Queen Elizabeth—85,000 tons, 1,030 feet long, 118 feet wide; most, $28,750,000; still incomplete.

Normandie—83,423 tons, 981 feet long, 117 feet wide; cost, $60,000,000; completed 1935. Queen Mary—81,235 tons, 975 feet long, 118 feet wide, cost $25,000,000; completed 1936.

The Queen Mary holds the transatlantic record of 3 days, 21 hours, 48 minutes; average, 30.99 knots.

Before the debate opened, both Democrats and Republicans joined in passing without argument uncontroversial budget measures calling for:

Continuation of levies on utilities, business, franchise, estates, stock transfers, gasoline, personal income, unincorporated business, liquor and cigarettes.

B. P. W. Official Finds It Hard to Understand Story

Office of
BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS
City of Kingston
New York

March 6, 1940.

The Editor,
Kingston Daily Freeman,
Freeman Square,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:
With reference to your article in the March 5th edition of your paper, entitled, "Slush and Snow Cover City Streets," may I state that it is difficult for this department to understand just what you expect us to do under present conditions as far as water on the streets is concerned.

The official record in the engineering department shows that the most recent storm started at 10 a. m., last Monday and continued until 8 a. m. Tuesday. The temperature was relatively high and five inches of very wet snow fell.

Our eleven snow plows started to remove snow and slush from the streets at noon Monday and continued to plow uninterruptedly for 24 hours. At 7 a. m. Monday, an hour before the snow and rain stopped, we already had six gangs out cleaning crosswalks and catchbasins, and in front of fire stations, churches, funeral parlors, and private homes where funerals were to be held. This work continued throughout Tuesday and Wednesday.

Your article was written before noon on Tuesday. It is difficult for us to understand how you could reasonably expect us to have all catchbasins and crosswalks in the 90 miles of streets open by noon, only four hours after the storm had ceased. For your information, however, I wish to state that by 5 p. m., 90 per cent of all crosswalks and catchbasins on Broadway and in the business districts were cleared.

A blizzard of the type we had last month does not come very often. When it does come, it is like a cloudburst or a hurricane. It creates extraordinary conditions, difficult to cope with, especially with so many vehicles on the streets under present traffic conditions. There have been some inconveniences and there will continue to be some, until the snow is gone. This department has done and is continuing to do everything in its power to keep streets open, and safe without wasting the public's money.

I can remember that not so many years ago, the only plowing that was done on city streets was what the trolley cars did, and automobiles had to stay in the trolley tracks when there was snow on the ground. Today, every street in the city is plowed. All snow is picked up in the business districts. The snow on the side streets, after such a storm as we recently had, creates drainage troubles and some inconvenience. The best solution to that problem would be to remove all snow on the side streets. This could be done with many more snow loaders and many more trucks and many more men, but the cost would be prohibitive.

As a citizen of Kingston I can understand human irritation at the unpleasant conditions brought about by the storm. The storm has been costly and brought many hardships and inconveniences. But, after all, it also served a good purpose throughout Ulster county. It has brought, and will continue to bring, a much needed water supply to farms and communities. In addition, it has insured that our water supply in Cooper Lake, which is low, will be greatly increased by spring.

Very truly yours,

Department of Public Works,
Ernest A. Steuding,
Superintendent.

Editor's Note: The news article referred to by the Public Works superintendent stated in part as follows:

"Pedestrians found the driest place in which to walk was the center of the street as the city's snow plows had worked during the night shoving back the snow and slush that covered the pavement."

"Public schools were forced to close at noon on Monday because walking conditions were so bad in the city."

"Along Broadway at street intersections the crosswalks were covered with snow and water and patrons using the bus line found it a hazardous feat to board a bus without getting their feet wet."

"No attempt was made to clear the crosswalks at many of the street intersections along Broadway, and conditions along this morning were almost as bad as Monday when a rowboat could be used to ferry oneself across a street intersection."

"With hundreds of catch basins hidden under banks of snow from two to six feet in depth and with gutters clogged with piles of snow and ice, water tends to flood the street."

Did the reporter accurately present the deplorable conditions of the streets of the city? Were there snow, ice and slush in the streets, the gutters, the crosswalks and the sidewalks? Were there huge piles of ice and snow from the previous storm still in the streets. Were all the catch basins opened? Did the night force of the Board of Public Works remove the snow or instead did it pile it up in gutters? Did the night force of the Board of Public Works remain idle at times when it appeared it could have eased its work and made crosswalks reasonably clear for the children going to school and the grown-ups going to work the next day?

The pedestrians and automobilists, who had to use the sidewalks and streets, know the answers to the above questions.

Bombing by Airplanes

Stops Flow of Lava

Bombing by airplanes is a successful method of stopping the flow of molten lava during the volcanic eruptions, a recent expedition found in inspecting shell holes left by 20 bombs dropped along the edge of the flow from erupting Mauna Loa volcano in Hawaii by United States army planes in 1935.

Volcanologists estimate that Mauna Loa at present erupts on the average about every four years. The range between longest and shortest intervals, however, has been from half a year to 10 years. According to Dr. T. A. Jagger, National Park volcanologist, by average intervals, the next Mauna Loa eruption should now be ready for an outburst at any time.

The bombs fell with remarkable accuracy and were doubtless the agent that stopped the flow of hot lava, thus preserving the town of Hilo, where lives and property lay in its destructive path.

Shortly before Mauna Loa erupted Dr. Jagger predicted in a report to the Carnegie Institution of Washington the eruption and declared that instead of flowing toward the south away from the towns near the mountain, as the rock ejected violently from the crater had done in previous eruptions, the lava would break over the northern side.

Kilauea first erupted on November 21, 1935. The actual eruption of its twin, Mauna Loa, took place December 3, 1935, but the lava did not reach the critical stage of flowing unimpeded toward Hilo until December 9. The first flow of lava formed a crust as it cooled in contact with the air, but a second stream of hot lava underneath retained its temperature and its liquidity and continued to flow under the crusty "roof." By December 18 this moving lake had spread beyond Humuula observatory station and on December 20 there was a sudden advance. This burned the grass and forest before it. The lava lake unexpectedly drained down the divide eastward toward Hilo.

From a slow rate of one-fourth mile per day as the flowing flood poured down the incline its speed changed to one mile per day eastward and continued for six days on a downgrade of 157 feet to the mile, with the steepness of the slope steadily increasing. Prominent citizens of Hilo called an emergency meeting and made hasty plans for a swift evacuation of the town. The expediency of bombing saved the population and evacuation became unnecessary.

Approach of New Ice Age

The approach of another ice age was forecast recently by Wilmet H. Bradley of the United States geological survey. Its thousands of years off, however, mud from the ocean bottom has shown a fairly regular sequence of hot and cold "spells" in the earth's history. Mr. Bradley wrote in the Scientific Monthly, and the world is now in one of its summers of existence. Dr. Charles S. Pigot, geophysicist of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, provided Mr. Bradley with cores of ocean mud, from two to six feet long, obtained by shooting a steel pipe into the ocean floor at various places off the Atlantic coast. By analyzing the mud, washed down through countless centuries from the rivers and the melting glaciers which once covered the Western hemisphere north of the Mason and Dixon line, Mr. Bradley traced the climate record for millions of years.

Canada's Oldest Building Housed Historic Mission

All that remains of what are claimed to be the oldest buildings in Canada—if not North America—are loopholed twin towers behind a high stone wall on Sherbrooke street in Montreal. Known as "le Fort des Messieurs," having been built by the Gentlemen of St. Sulpice, a religious order, or the "Mountain" from being on the side of Mount Royal, the towers were once part of the mission home of the converted Iroquois Indians.

The mission's first priest was Abbe Guillaume Bailly, in 1677. Schools for Indian boys and girls were established in 1679, but the main problems of their elders were their innate superstitions kept alive by the medicine men.

Although Abbe Belmont, a member of a distinguished French family, took charge of the mission in 1680, built a church with an organ, a house for the missionaries, a stable, planted a vine that lasted down the centuries, the prospering converted Iroquois went on the war-path and their unconverted brethren captured 35 of the converts near the mission in 1690.

Convinced that the mission should be fortified, Abbe Belmont erected wooden palisades with flanking bastions, but in 1694 an Indian discharged a musket during the course of a quarrel and the buildings went up in flames.

The courageous abbe immediately set about restoration in stone. The chateau or priests' home, 100 by 30 feet, was built and stood until 1860. The rearward pair of towers went up shortly after the priests' home.

The girls' school of the mission, instituted by the saintly Marguerite de Bourgeoys, was first in an Indian hut, then in a building, and later occupied the westernmost tower.

In 1685 when Bishop de St. Vallier visited the mission, 40 little Indian girls were presented to him dressed in French clothes and brought up according to French manners. The boys were also taught to speak and sing in French and in addition the principles of tailoring, shoemaking and masonry were taught. With their own hands, they built several stone houses during the reconstruction period.

With the closing of the mission, more land was cultivated and it is still known as the Priests' farm despite the large college buildings and the cutting up of much of the land into building lots.

Experts of planks and boards from Canada during the first 11 months of 1939 amounted to 1,963 million feet, a gain of 30 per cent over the same period of 1938.

PROGRESS WITH RESERVATIONS

A newspaper man, interested in the much-heralded "imminent perfection of television," is moved to comment on the little details that science fails to catch as it marches forward.

"When television comes," he says, "we are told it will be possible to sit in the living room and watch events of news interest occurring in distant places."

"But meanwhile, I wish science and the Federal Bureau of Communications would put their combined resources to the problem of enabling my present radio to catch the local stations without too much static. I can often get Europe without too much static. But I can't get a station situated within a half-dozen miles of where I live, except by simultaneously listening to an exasperating stage-whispered accompaniment from another station located, I believe, some hundreds of miles away. A radio expert tells me there is nothing to be done about it."

Perfection, perhaps, is always imminent but never arrives. Incidentally, this suggests a discouraging possibility. When television is as widespread as radio, will there be similar interference, with ghostly figures blurring the program or event the dialer wants to see?

CHRISTMAS TREE TRUCKS

Many people have wondered at big trucks roaring through the night lit up like Christmas trees in many colors. They make a fascinating sight, but rather startling when they suddenly loom in the darkness over the edge of a hill or around a curve.

The Christmas effect is explained. The idea isn't ornamentation. Long-distance trucks carry the red, yellow, blue, purple, green and crystal lights because all of these colors, separately or in combination, are required in various states through which they pass.

The Bureau of Standards of the Federal Department of Commerce is now trying to simplify that color display through more uniform state laws. It is another example of state legislation running riot in regulative acts. States are "sovereign" but not absolutely so. In matters of interstate commerce especially they need to adopt more uniform rules and procedures.

BUYING BERMUDA

A clarion echo of that Bermuda mail seizure episode is a bill introduced by Senator Reynolds of North Carolina. It calls for the purchase of Bermuda by the United States in partial payment of Britain's debt to us from the last war.

It doesn't require any prophetic gift to forecast the failure of this deal. It is just twisting the lion's tail. Even if the measure were to pass, which isn't likely, those charming islands would remain British. Britain isn't selling any real estate at present, especially any that is so happily situated in the Atlantic as a stepping-stone between Europe and America.

Later on, if England and France unexpectedly lost the war or impoverished themselves in winning it, there might be quite a bit of territorial liquidation to help pay the debts.

BAD DRIVING CONDITIONS

Unfavorable weather conditions are believed to be responsible in large measure for increased traffic deaths this year. During January, Motor Vehicle Commissioner Mealey reports traffic fatalities veered sharply upward. Despite the decline in both accidents and injuries, deaths totaled 184, an increase of 31 over the corresponding month last year.

The commissioner states that the statistical report leaves no doubt as to the extremely hazardous driving conditions present due to ice and unusually heavy snow. There were 86 fatal accidents directly traceable to these causes.

The accumulation of ice and snow on the streets and highways will continue to make operation of motor vehicles extremely dangerous and drivers cannot afford to ignore common sense safety practices.

Pedestrians also are reminded that they, too, should be careful. In the list of dead, thirty-five pedestrians lost their lives by crossing roads between intersections; twenty-two were killed crossing against traffic signals and 18 others were killed walking on rural roads in New York State during January.

Driving practices must be adjusted to meet prevailing conditions of ice, snow, rain and sleet. Extreme care should be exercised while these conditions exist.

The unfavorable driving conditions during January didn't deter the reckless driver and the speeder. Reckless driving and speeding are the two leading causes for which license and registration revocations of January exceeded the number of revocations during the same month a year ago, according to the commissioner. Revocations and suspensions totaled 2,312.

It's often discouraging to look at the people who govern free countries—until we take a good look at the fellows governing the slave countries.

Europe is now very busy making munitions and printing money, and they both lead to the same end.

You might think, from the Red propaganda, that Russia was David and Finland was Goliath.

CONTROL OF SINUS DISEASE

As medical students, the commonest joke about the profession was that we should all be skin specialists because the skin patient did not arouse the specialist at night, his skin ailment never killed him, and the ailment never got better.

A few years later, the joke was that we should all be ear, nose, and throat specialists in a temperate climate where everybody has some nose, throat, sinus, or ear trouble, the best location being, perhaps, the Great Lakes region. It was about this time that operations on the turbinate bones in the nose, straightening the septum of the nose, and opening up the sinuses by surgery—inside and outside—were very common.

What about sinus operations today?

In speaking about the control of nasal sinus disease, Dr. Lewis J. Silvers, New York, in Ear, Nose and Throat Monthly says:

"Sinus disease has challenged our best efforts towards its removal during the past ten years. Surgery, electro-surgery, physical therapy (heat and electricity), change of climate, treatment of allergic conditions, and the prevention and care of infections of nose and throat have all contributed somewhat to the removal of the ravages of sinus disease. Today we rarely perform radical disfiguring sinus operations. The use of electro-surgery—knife heated by electricity which prevents infection and bleeding—with X-ray and ultra-short wave treatment, has done much for the removal of infections that are deep seated and hard to reach."

Dr. Silvers states that with each treatment by the electric knife or needle to the swollen turbinate bones which are blocking the nose, the heat of the instrument not only stuns up a healthy activity of the normal cells but destroyed many harmful organisms.

Chronic sinusitis may be infectious or non-infectious. If infectious, all infected teeth, tonsils or polyps (small masses of fleshy material which hang in the nose) should be removed. If non-infectious, electro-surgery usually suffices to shrink the turbinates and permit sufficient ventilation and drainage.

For the great majority of sufferers with simple "head colds," the salt and water injections or the sprays of ephedrine or epinephrine (adrenalin) are sufficient to shrink the lining of nose, and so ventilate the sinuses.

The Common Cold

Did you know that practically every cold infects the sinuses to some extent? Yet the common cold is probably more neglected than any other ailment. Send today for Dr. Barton's booklet entitled "The Common Cold" (No. 104), which contains many helpful suggestions. Send your request to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of handling and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Waco, Tex., (P)—As long as a wife has to buy the family nutmeg, the potatoes and the baby shoes she may as well become a professional purchasing agent and select her husband's clothing, too. Some men may not like it, but Mrs. T. C. Cardwell, head of the Baylor University Economics Department, is giving her co-eds that idea. She says if women are taught to realize responsibility in buying they will purchase more serviceable clothing for their husbands than the husbands themselves. She teaches the co-eds to give attention to buttons, correctly fitted collars, well-sewed seams, effects of laundering or fabrics, and other pertinent details. To make the course complete she is seeking as exhibit A the spectacle of a man in a tantrum just after he has discovered his self-purchased shirt shrank three sizes while in the laundry.

Feiping, North China, (P)—Japanese ingenuity has developed a new court game combining the main features of tennis with a bit of baseball slugging. Unable to obtain standard tennis balls because of the wartime import restrictions, Japanese soldiers have submitted a soft rubber-covered sphere with a minimum of bounce. A walloper who would send a tennis ball a quarter of a mile, barely drives the new ball over the net. A high lob bounces about two feet off the court. To keep the ball in play, the players have to slug away a la Di Maggio, hitting with one or two hands in what vaguely resembles a side-armed volley. The low bounce requires quick action and wide court coverage. The new ball will never be welcomed at Wimbledon, but it provides the Japanese with plenty of exercise for a small sum. The balls cost 10 cents each in local currency, compared with the price of $16 for three imported balls.

MARLBOROUGH

Marlborough, March 5.—At the Union Lenten service held Sunday evening in the Presbyterian Church, the guest speaker was the Rev. J. Scott King, pastor of the Little Britain Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Mr. King is well known to the people of this section of the country, since he has been lecturer of Pomona Grange for about 40 years. He has served as stated clerk of the North River Presbytery for a long period, and last year was elected moderator of the Synod of New York. He is the first pastor of a country church ever to be elected to this important post. Dr. King celebrates his 50th year as pastor of the Little Britain Church this year.

Under a charter which will be forwarded soon by the State Education Department, the Marlborough High School will be re-classified as a six-year secondary school or a junior-senior high school. The Marlborough school is the only village school in the Hudson valley to be re-classified as a junior-senior school, so far as is known. Application for the charter was made a few months ago by the principal, Edward L. Dalby.

The state department had but one fault to find with the entire schedule, the lack of a course in general mathematics to be used as a terminal course for those pupils who do not intend to elect advanced mathematics courses. Last year a general mathematics course was included in the schedule, but was dropped when such a few students wanted it. This is the first charter for which the Marlborough school has applied for in 24 years. On November 28, 1916, under the principalship of David D. Taylor, the Marlborough village school was granted a charter raising it to a senior grade school. The first charter making this school a Union Free School was in October 15, 1869.

President Has Taken Personal Hand in What Should Be Done to Change Wagner Labor Relations Act
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 7.—President Roosevelt has taken a personal hand in the problem of what should be done to amend the Wagner Labor Relations Act. During his absence on a vacation all sorts of stories were afloat on Capitol Hill to the effect that the administration was prepared to kill any changes in the Wagner Act at this session by the simple device of asking the House labor committee not to do anything about it.

Now, however, it has developed that a majority of the House of Representatives wants to do something about it and is prepared to discharge the regular labor committee from consideration of the measure. If this is inevitable there is a sound reason from a political viewpoint why the administration should jockey itself into the position of obstructing changes in a law which has been proved in need of some amendment.

The CIO strategy, of course, though ostensibly in favor of amendments which would have more one-sided than it now is, really favors no change in the law. Much of the benefit that has accrued to the CIO organizers has come from the CIO's intimate relationship with the National Labor Relations Board, which has been revealed before the special investigating House committee to have actually participated in the framing of cases together with the CIO against employers.

The policy moreover of the labor board has been to go after certain large businesses while feeling secure that the small business men of America had neither the funds nor the energies to combat the attacks of the labor board and ally—the CIO. The present drive for amending the Wagner Act comes as much if not more from the small businesses of America which are helpless in the face of an abuse of power by the labor board scarcely paralleled in all the annals of so-called quasi-judicial boards.

When President Roosevelt summoned for conference at the White House Chairman Smith, of the House committee investigating the labor board, the impression that arose at once was that Mr. Roosevelt hoped to reach an agreement with Mr. Smith as to the nature of the amendments to be proposed at this time. The President in a sense became the chief mediator between rival interests because he knows the A. F. of L. will insist on amendments and he knows, too, that the House labor committee will not of course stand out against recommending changes in the Wagner law if the President so desires.

So what is being witnessed is a bit of behind-the-scenes negotiation with a view to getting changes in the Wagner law which the administration hopes will quiet the opposition throughout the country and tend to remove the Wagner act from the campaign as a political issue. Mr. Roosevelt's leadership is being put to the test because the first step in a positive course recognizing that the A. F. of L. wants amendments and a new labor board while the CIO wants to keep the present board and its inside track in connection with the board's operations. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

Guild Group to Meet March 15 To Found Permanent Center

Woodstock, March 7.—Plans will be furthered at a meeting in the art gallery Friday, March 15, at 3 o'clock, to establish a permanent exhibit center for the Woodstock Craftsman's Guild, it was announced today.

It has been planned tentatively to display the works of local craftsmen starting Memorial Day in quarters adjoining the G. C. Layman store.

Various committees which have been working to make the guild a permanent unit in the community will report at the meeting next week.

Considerable interest has been shown in the effort of the group to give the art colony an impressive and permanent exhibiting center and sales outlet for local handicraft and a co-operative organization has been formed.

Three types of membership are available in the guild and they are listed as sustaining, active and life. The organization is an outgrowth of preliminary efforts last year in which displays of handicraft intended to test the idea, proved successful.

Virtually every type of handicraft is found in the community and the guild plans to function from the spring to the fall of each year, or possibly longer. Mrs. Emmet Edwards has been named to take charge of sales.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

Bands of hoodlums in their early teens roam the streets of the upper East Side and, except for odd weapons, commit stickups with all the finish of veteran gangsters. The victims of these adolescent criminals are not grownups. They are other youngsters. Many a little boy or girl, sent to the store by a mother, returns home without money and sometimes with a bruised face and torn clothes. Boys and girls on roller skates are tripped and their skates stolen. Many a youngster who starts out with a bicycle comes home and weeps a tale of theft. A boy whose bicycle was present was a sled, undertook to defend his property and was beaten until he had to let go the rope. Victims are loath to tell their parents what happened to them. They are still more averse to making identifications. Fear of reprisals of course is what keeps them silent.

Motorists are also victims of these juvenile gangs. Spare tires, no matter how carefully locked, disappear. Hub caps are taken either in a spirit of vandalism or to be sold as junk. Locked cars are not safe. Door handles are broken off or windows smashed and interiors looted. In other sections of the city, news stands are often left unattended, customers depositing their pennies on counters or on piles of papers. That doesn't hold true on the East side up in the Nineties. There all news stands are so arranged the interiors cannot be reached from the sidewalk. Owners make it a point to be on hand all through business hours. If they go away, without leaving someone on watch, on return they are apt to find their stocks have vanished.

Boys and girls playing in Central park are not infrequent victims of youthful bandits. Money, bicycles, skates, articles of clothing and even candy are taken. There are police in the park of course. But the park covers a large area and the police cannot be everywhere. Also the gangs have lookouts ready to cry, "Jiggers" at the sight of a bluecoat or anyone who looks like an officer. On a recent sunny afternoon, a middle-aged man went to sleep on a bench. Witnesses said they saw no one near him except some boys who seemed to be playing. Yet when he awakened, he not only found his pockets empty but his glasses gone.

The greater number of these juvenile criminals, according to a friend who is a social worker, come from homes of bitter poverty. Having nothing themselves, they show no hesitancy in taking from those who have. The only remedy, she holds, is abolition of tenements and raising the living standards. So believing she refused to make a report to the police when her 10-year-old not only was held up but was beaten. And to think of the future of these youngsters is not pleasant.

Familiar characters in the Times Square sector still remain. For instance, Broadway Rose who has been about for years. Then there is that diminutive chewing gum peddler with cheeks that remind me of rambo apples, who appears at various theaters during intermissions both at matinees and at night. The blind accordion player still traverses the Fifties and the blind couple with the saxophones are seen nightly. The legless man with the little cart pulled by a white dog seems to be missing. Possibly he has gone to Florida.

Many New Yorkers sport low or distinctive license numbers on their automobiles again this year. In the past, this has been a courtesy service on the part of the motor vehicles commission. It may be different in the future, however. At present a charge of $5 for such work in 1941 is under consideration. It is believed the fee will decrease the demand. My belief is that it will make it all the greater. But even should that prove true, the state won't lose. (Bell Syndicate—WPU Service.)

Charged With Milton Burglaries

Joseph Koenig, 37, who gave his address as Milton, where he has been employed at odd jobs for some months past, is held at the Ulster county jail to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of burglary in the third degree.

Arrested by Sergeant Hulse following a complaint by Patsy Matarazza, of Milton, that his barber shop had been burglarized Tuesday night, Koenig was questioned by the sergeant and Troopers Metzger and Baker of the B. C. I. The troopers say that he admitted having entered the barber shop, by means of the front window, and taking a pair of hair clippers valued at $35 and some change; also that on January 3 he had entered the bar and grill conducted by Frank Lafaro and stolen some change and a bottle of liquor.

Kearney Davis Injured By Fall on Icy Pavement

Kearney Davis of Albany avenue was treated at the Kingston Hospital last night for injuries about the head, back and shoulder, when he slipped and fell on the icy pavement.

It was at first thought that Davis had been struck by a passing car and the matter was reported to the sheriff's office. Deputies Vredenburg and McCullough found on investigation that Davis had been walking along but found that he had slipped and fallen, the road being icy from snow which had melted during the day and then frozen. They took him to the hospital, where he was discharged after treatment.

In New York city's populous borough of Manhattan, which has about 915,000 telephones, there are more than 250,000 wiring plans in use—switching systems for small groups of these telephones, providing pick-up, holding, cut-off, and intercommunication.

TO EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD IN THE STATE:

FRESH MILK is nature's most nearly perfect food. It is essential in the diet of young people for the proper development of bones and teeth, the maintenance of general health. Its high nutritional value provides energy at all ages.

Local Grocers Featuring National Biscuit Bran

Kingston grocers are featuring a new National Biscuit Company product known as National Biscuit 100 per cent Bran. This new form of bran has been developed after two years of testing and research.

This National Biscuit 100 per cent bran is said to help relieve constipation caused by too little bulk. An improved process of double milling makes the product less likely to be irritating. It carries the seal of acceptance of the Council on Foods of the American Medical Association and the seal of approval of Good Housekeeping Institute. Because of its delicious flavor and smooth texture, this mild, smooth, double milled bran is said to be winning the favor of people who never liked bran before.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
One-Alarmers Preferred
Paducah, Ky.—The Paducah fire department's hook and ladder truck can be counted on to get there despite a little motor trouble.

Toughie
Grand Coulee, Wash.—Even the cats are tough out west. Amid changing steel and 3,000 bustling men, a cat gave birth to four kittens atop Grand Coulee Dam.

Fishy Idea
Salt Lake City.—The Salt Lake County Fish and Game Association asked permission to place fish in downtown gutters to advertise the entertainment at its annual meeting.

It would be possible, because a small stream of water is kept running in the gutters.
City commissioners took the idea under advisement.

The association calls its show "The Sportsmen's Riot."

Individualist
Springfield, Ill.—Lee Becker, a strong believer in individual initiative, went just a little too far when he made his own license plates.

Policemen, attracted by the brilliant lustre of the tags and an early series number arrested Becker who told them he had fashioned the plates out of a stove pipe.

Steady Customer
Hastings, Neb.—Eight-year-old Larry Dean Schnase is no stranger at a hospital here.

At present he's recovering from a double mastoid operation. Two years ago he was here with a fractured thigh.

When he was a year old he underwent a first operation for double mastoid.

Three weeks afterward he returned to have his tonsils removed.

Woodstock Lady Legatee
New York, March 6 (Special).—Dorothy Varian of Woodstock is the recipient of $5,000 from the estate left by her second cousin, the late Jessie Cluett Barton, of New York, whose property was appraised here today by the State Transfer Tax Department.

Mrs. Barton died September 22, 1938, in Paris, leaving property which was appraised today at $428,264 gross value, $381,539 net. The bulk consisted of Cluett, Peabody and Company stock.

Snakes and Jewels
The boldest thief would hesitate before putting his hand into a safe where he had reason to think a deadly snake lurked. Thus the following notice, appearing prominently on a case of jewels owned by a woman occupying a house in Mayfair, England, is likely to be more effective than either watchdog or police:

TO BURGLARS AND HOUSE-BREAKERS
This case contains jewels. Beware of the poisonous snakes! The snakes are real; it is not a case of "Beware of the dog" when there is no dog. The snakes are supplied by a well-known animal dealer, who sends to the woman who owns the jewels a weekly supply of food for her guardian reptiles. The snakes live in a glass case containing another case in which the jewels are kept. Though the latter are worth thousands of pounds, no attempt has ever been made to steal them.

Stone Age Wheat Cultivation
Discovery of a grain of wheat below the foundations of a prehistoric settlement at Island McHugh in Barancourt lake, County Tyrone, Ireland, throws an entirely new light on the life of the first inhabitants of Ireland. Two archeologists, Oliver Davies of Queen's university, Belfast, and C. F. Mitchell, Trinity college, Dublin, report that the grain was found at the new Stone Age level dating about 2000 B. C. The settlement is on an estate of the duke of Abercorn. It has been thought that the earliest men in the country were hunters and fishermen only, but the wheat grain proves them to have been farmers, the archeologists maintain. It is their opinion that cereals, and the knowledge of their cultivation, were brought from the Mediterranean to Ireland by the tomb builders.

to bring an immediate end to the war in China or instantaneous withdrawal of Japanese troops. He expressed confidence, however, that the Chinese people would be won over to peace and that the Japanese would fulfill promises regarding China's sovereignty and independence.

Even Generalissimo Chiang would not find the door closed to peace negotiations if he would cease fraternizing with Communists and would abandon his resistance, Wang said.

Wang predicted, "with the peace scheme put into effect, the new government will gain the confidence of the people; Chiang's army will disintegrate and cease to be a national force. Under these conditions it is unlikely that a civil war will be fought."

Chinese Communists, however, "may continue to cause disturbances," he said, indicating that his forces would take the field against them if necessary. Japan would retain the right to garrison troops in certain areas for defense against Chinese and Russian Communists, these points to be covered in a treaty between Wang and the Tokyo government.

One of the first acts of the Wang government will be to repudiate Chiang's government. Then a peace treaty will be negotiated with Japan, and Japanese troops will be withdrawn as various sections become peaceful, Wang predicted.

Then the open door policy will be made effective, and "all friendly powers desiring to trade with or invest in China will be welcomed provided their activities do not impair Chinese sovereignty and are consistent with principles of equality and reciprocity."

"The largest fleet of its kind in the world," according to "Collier's," is that of the 20,700 motor cars used in the nation-wide Bell Telephone service.

The money advanced on the purchase of certificates is not a gift but a temporary loan and will be repaid to each certificate holder according to the club's activities on their property pays returns. They are: Vanderlyn Pine, John MacHorton, Alfred Stadelmann, Frank Van Gonsie, Joseph Hornbeck, Donald S. Beattie, Lewis Van Alst, Peter H. Harp, Edward C. Elmoe, Martin Decker, Ralph Boss, Frank Elliott, Howard Mosher, Emory G. Jacobs, Albert Weisz, Kenneth Vanderlynn, Charles Huntington, William Lohman, Norman Baker, Albert Schoonmaker, R. V. Petersen, Raymond Morris, Louis Pucino, Irving Kauder, Dr. Virgil B. DeWitt, A. Henry, Stanley Haskin, Iver Miller, Howard Crum, John Van Gonsie, Harold DuBois, DeWitt C. Seward and Harry G. Gregory.

Discussion Held

New Palitz, March 6—At a panel discussion on the Reduction of State Aid to Schools held in the high school Thursday evening, Miss A. Moore (a teacher) gave a birdseye view of the history of how schools were supported. Dr. Roland G. Will, teacher at the Normal School spoke on the benefits of education and its intangible values; Herman Glanz of the Huguenot National Bank, New Palitz, discussed the question of taxation in relation to education. Mrs. Raymond V. O. DuBois, a housewife viewed the report of the State Regents Inquiry which told of the findings and recommendations. Ralph Johnson, superintendent of schools in his talk went into the statistics of the question and Mr. Lent, a lawyer, gave his own opinions on the question. E. Crane, principal of Walkkill High School, tried to present and participate. Mrs. Carl Vandewater gave a brief summary of the points brought out during the discussion after which the public was at liberty to ask questions.

Village Notes

New Palitz, March 6—The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church held its regular monthly meeting with Mrs. Elmer Bostock at the parsonage Tuesday evening, March 5.

The annual village caucus was held at the American Legion Hall Monday night, March 4. Nominations were made for two trustees to fill the places of John J. Corwin and Henry DuBois whose terms are about to expire. Results will be made known later.

Theodore Lasher, president of the local rifle club accompanied by several delegates, attended the annual meeting of the Mid-Hudson rifle league at Poughkeepsie, recently at their meeting Monday evening. The local club selected emblems for its members and secretary H. Wood, expects to have them available in the near future.

The bad weather has delayed the building of the club's outdoor range to be located on the Dodd farm. Plans have been made to start the work as soon as the weather permits.

Charlotte Terhune and Barbara Wyman spent the week-end with Miss Terhune's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett H. Terhune in Poughkeepsie.

The firemen held another rehearsal for their minstrel show Tuesday evening.

Since it has been certified by the State Commissioner of Health that there are cases of rabies among dogs in the adjoining towns of Lloyd, Gardner and Plattkill, Dr. Virgil DeWitt, health officer of the town of New Palitz, as a precautionary measure in accordance with the public health law, has ordered no dog in the town be allowed at large unless muzzled.

Model Five-Room Home Is Erected for $1750

An experimental five room house with bath, that is designed to cost as little as $1750, has been successfully built in Lebanon, N. J.

This unique dwelling was constructed under the sponsorship of a nonprofit research organization interested in reducing construction costs to provide better housing for more people.

High quality materials and practical construction methods, with certain innovations, were employed. The main shell of the dwelling is so designed that it can be erected by four men in an eight-hour day.

Special plywood construction was used for exteriors and interiors, entire wall panels being fabricated in a temporary workshop at the job and erected as units.

Almost all furniture, including beds, is built in. Another innovation was a patented wiring system with electrical conduits embodied in an ornamental molding, having outlets every few feet. A fireplace and efficient heating unit were combined and hard sheet lead was used for flashing.

Paint styling is relied on to a great extent to produce individuality and the effect of large size in this minimum home. Since the outer walls were formed in three horizontal panels separated by narrow structural members, it was found that by painting the middle panel a slightly lighter shade of the same color apparent height of the house was increased. Still a lighter shade on the trim and horizontal bands seemed to give the house added length.

Find Indians Lived In Kansas in 3 Eras

Shown in Excavations Made By Smithsonian Man.

WASHINGTON—Three types of primitive men lived on the western Kansas plains in three different prehistoric eras, according to Dr. Walden R. Wedel, who conducted excavations in the region for the Smithsonian institution last summer.

Evidence of three successive occupancies of the plains area was found in stratified layers.

Scattered on the surface, uncovered by recent dust storms, and in two pits, Dr. Wedel found relics of the so-called Upper Republican culture—arrowheads and pottery dating from the late prehistoric period. The Indians who left them apparently were ancestors of the Pawnee present in the country when the first Spaniards arrived.

Beneath this was found a layer of barren soil overlying artifacts of the so-called Woodland culture, similar to cultures of some prehistoric Indian tribes east of the Mississippi.

Beneath the Woodland level was another strip of barren soil about a foot thick overlying a layer of soil interspersed with fire-cracked stones and charred and broken animal bones—apparently the remains of some primitive kitchen. Careful search revealed no artifacts. The primitive race had left no arrowheads nor fragments of pottery. There were no bits of charred corn indicating a partial vegetable diet and a settled agricultural life.

Dr. Wedel went to Kansas primarily to investigate a Pueblo ruin. There is some historical support for the story that, following the Spanish conquest of New Mexico, a small band of these Indians fled to Kansas and set up a Pueblo settlement. Dr. Wedel found traces of the seven-room pueblo which the Indians erected in the plains country.

Maximum Eye Sensitivity Effected by Dim Lighting

When a person emerges from a brilliantly lighted room into a dimly lighted room, it takes his eyes a little time to adjust themselves to the new conditions of seeing. But after a few minutes the more prominent objects become distinct and vision becomes clearer up. This results, says the Better Vision Institute, because the sensitivity of the retina increases. Eyes attain maximum sensitivity after they have been shaded completely from all light for about 30 to 40 minutes. In that condition they are "dark adapted" and they can see a thousand times more clearly in dim light than can eyes just leaving a brightly lighted room.

However, "dark adapted" eyes cannot distinguish colors easily. A spectrum produced by feeble illumination appears colorless. The band of the spectrum that is green in ordinary light appears gray. Under these conditions vision is called "twilight vision." If the illumination is increased, the eyes soon become light-adapted and the spectrum is seen clearly in all its colors of the rainbow.

It is because of twilight vision that the colors in a landscape appear differently as the sun goes down than they do in the middle of the day. As the light dims the reds lose their color first and appear black. The blues next fade, and finally the greens become gray.

LEAP BEFORE YOU LOOK

By Peggy O'More

YESTERDAY: Abe introduces Tomi to the frogs. Then Bartell reads her the provisions of the will in detail and she agrees to meet him at the Alameda bank. After he leaves, a girl comes down the path.

Chapter Nine The Blonde Gaddy

TOMI loved beauty. She wanted friends, the girl chums that the Toland barriers had kept from her. Perhaps this was a neighbor coming to welcome her. She arose eagerly.

"Just what are you doing in here?" demanded the vision. "Didn't you see the no trespassing sign on the gate?"

Tomi's smile grew scintillating. "Did you?" she asked. "Why, I belong here," came the indignant reply.

Tomi's smile grew sweeter. So this was Lily, the girl who, according to Old Abe, hung around Allen. As far as Lily is concerned, thought Tomi, Allen has won this property and she is married to him.

Suddenly Tomi decided that Lily was wrong. Allen wasn't going to win the property and Lily wasn't going to win Allen.

A. J. Morris could have told Lily Mankin that danger lay ahead when Tomi smiled that particularly scintillating smile. A. J., however, was in Chicago.

Besides, it was difficult for anyone to tell Lily anything she didn't want to believe. This strikingly pretty girl in slacks and sweater was not what she had expected in Timothy Toland's heir. She was not Lily's idea of a business woman. Business women were either fat and pompous, or thin and acidulous. This girl was neither. She must be Miss Toland's companion or a companion-maid.

The appearance of Old Abe offered relief from the irritating smile. "Abe," she ordered, "kindly tell Miss Toland that Miss Mankin is looking for Mr. Bartell."

Gravely Abe turned to Tomi. "Miss Toland, Lily's looking for Allen again."

"Kindly tell Miss Mankin that Miss Toland wishes her luck," returned Tomi blithely, and skipped up the steps and into the house.

Tomi wasn't smiling when Abe joined her a few moments later. She was walking up and down the living room, saying, "This is mine, mine—all of it."

She came to an abrupt stop before Timothy Toland's portrait. "Just what did you have in your mind when you drew up that will?" she demanded. "You've had me brought out here six months before I can claim the property. You gave Allen ten thousand dollars before you died, he says, so I could carry on the farm. If that's the idea, why couldn't you have given the ten thousand to me, so I wouldn't have to dance to that legal gigolo's tune?"

Abe sauntered in, nibbling a leaf. "Heck, I can answer some of them questions," he offered. "Come in, frog time. Farm needs someone to start the marketing. If you don't get the big ones moved out, there won't be no room for those that are growin' up."

"Frogs is like pigs; they're prolific. They got the same kind of appetites too. They'd eat up your profits if you didn't start movin' 'em to market."

Tomi wheeled on Abe. "So that's it. I'm sent out here to put the farm on its feet financially. I start with a handicap that could be made up next year. But I have to show profit at the end of this season, or lose the place. That's just dandy; and with Bartell's fingers cramped around the purse-strings, what chance have I?"

"Aimin' to marry?"

Abe stroked his mustache. "Aw now, pardner, I reckon we can make a go of it, you and me."

"But why didn't he give the money to me?"

"Maybe he thought you'd spend it for pretties."

"How well did you know Uncle Timothy?" she demanded.

Abe pondered over this. "Don't know as I can say. Knewed him off and on for years. Then when he bought this place he come after me and I lived with him here for a few months. But can't say I really knowed him. You remember how he was, sayin' one thing and meanin' another. Seemed to me like he was laughin' at every thing and everybody, but mostly at himself."

Tomi nodded. And this heritage of hers was the grand climax to his career of practical joking.

"Where does Lily fit into the picture?" she asked thoughtfully. "Did Uncle Timothy know her?"

Abe guffawed. "He sure did. Said once he'd never before seen a blonde gaddy."

Tomi brightened. "Then why does she think she has some claim on the property?"

"Lily's like that. She's aimin' to marry Allen when he can get around to it, and she figures anything he's got a hand in is hers. She and him got raised together; lived next door to each other. Guess he's had to put up with her for so long it ain't occurred to him he don't have to."

"Well, I don't reared with her," stated Tomi, emphatically, "and I don't have to put up with her. The idea of her accusing me or anyone else of trespassing."

"Aw now," soothed Abe, "she ain't so bad if you don't take her serious."

"I'm not taking her any way," said Tomi with such finality that

Abe went shuffling out of the house.

Tomi went back to her stance before Timothy's portrait. Something didn't ring true. If he had thought she had enough business ability to make a success of the farm, why had he thought she would foolishly spend the money he'd set aside?

She wished she had waited to question Bartell, or hired a Chicago attorney to question him, before she started West. Never having been involved in legacies, she hadn't realized that six months had to elapse before an estate was distributed. Anything could happen within those six months. The family might contest the will and win.

"But had I known what was ahead, I'd have stayed on with A. J.," she murmured. "This way, I have a six months' start. And, believe me, Timothy Toland, I'm going to take advantage of those months. There'll be legs... frogs' legs... on every table in the land."

First, however, she must find a place where she might sleep with some assurance of safety. She started a tour of the house and gradually forgot Uncle Timothy, Lily, even Allen Bartell.

Five rooms had been crowded onto the first floor. Five rooms with tall, narrow windows looking out on nothing in particular.

Mentally, Tomi razed a few walls and the lean-to kitchen, reduced the rooms to three, and inserted broad windows which would give a view of the bay or of the hills.

She ascended the stairs to confront five small bedrooms and a bath larger than any of them. She would turn the south side into one big room; at present she'd content herself with the southwest room overlooking the bay—and, her subconscious mind prompted, Allen Bartell's house.

The Automobile

SHE admitted reluctantly that his place was attractive. It was modernistic in line with windows like exaggerated portholes, their sea-blue frames gay against the white clapboard walls. She could barely see the end of a veranda which was built like a deck, but it seemed to protrude to the very brink of a short cliff and there joined a pier which jutted into the bay.

Outside, in a grove of black salt cedars, was a barbecue pit, a court which was probably used for squash ball and badminton, a driving tee and putting green.

"All it needs is a slide and a sandbox to make it a perfect playground," grumbled Tomi.

She spent the rest of the morning listing things she must purchase in town. Abe ambled back to sit, chewing a leaf of mint, its spicy aroma fresh in the musty air of the old house. Abe wanted any number of things for the frogs.

"Got to get the cafeteria started," he explained. "Didn't get seeds, so you'd better buy plants." At Tomi's bewildered look he elucidated. "Sweet smelly blossoms bring bees and insects, so we plant them inside the pens and the frogs hop on, and help themselves. Frogs only eat alive meat."

"And what would you like for yourself, Abe? Isn't there something special you'd like for dinner?"

"Sure is," sighed Abe. "Steak—but I couldn't eat it, 'ceptin' ground."

Onto Tomi's list went, "Teeth for Abe." And, as an afterthought, "Cookbook for myself."

Then she thought of the car. She had better look it over, perhaps back it out that circuitous driveway to the front of the house, before she dressed for town.

"Where's the garage, Abe?" she asked as he started for the pens. Abe blinked at her.

"The garage, where we keep the automobile," she repeated.

"Oh, that," Abe jerked his thumb towards a ramshackle shed.

Tomi approached the shed with considerable apprehension, the memory of Allen's words ringing a warning. She took one look inside. So Timothy Toland had had the nerve to call that an automobile. No wonder there were doors at both ends of the shed.

Tomi blocked open the south doors which would allow her to drive forward, then surveyed the vehicle. It was almost as old as Abe and in as dire need of repair. Even the sagging fenders drooped like the caretaker's mustache.

"Maybe," she thought, hopefully, "it has an admirable disposition."

It took her just fifteen minutes to learn that its disposition was a counterpart of Allen Bartell's. There was a maddening chuckle somewhere underneath the hood. The angrier Tomi grew, the louder the engine chuckled.

"Abe!" Tomi's voice was strident with anger. "Abe! Come in and see if you can make this confounded tin-can do anything but laugh."

The old man dragged up the driveway, patted the fenders and opened the car was "a little fussy."

He squeezed under the wheel and began the same sing-song communion he had used on the frogs. And, frog-like, it responded.

Tomi fled as the car sprang into the air and went leaping along the driveway. Abe alternately hitting top and seat, his face wearing a look of fatuous pride.

FREEMAN CLASSIFIED ADS ARE BARGAIN-HUNTERS

Says Ruling of Mayor Is Narrow

March 6, 1940.

Editor, the Kingston Daily Freeman:

I am taking this opportunity to reply to Mayor Heiselman's recent statement which appeared in the Kingston Daily Freeman in regard to the stopping of relief orders to grocery stores who sell bread which is manufactured outside the city of Kingston. His action is unfair and absolutely un-American, positively unconstitutional and smacks of small town dictatorship, which smells a little Russian or Nazi. The Wonder Bread Company is my employer. All of my earnings are spent in the City of Kingston. As a home-owner, I must pay my taxes and to maintain it, I must employ Kingston mechanics. All of the foodstuffs which reach my table are purchased from Kingston merchants, as all other household necessities.

As an operator of a motor vehicle for my business, I purchase my gas, oil, tires and have repairs made in the City of Kingston at various service stations and garages.

Furthermore, a good portion of my taxes helps to pay the salary of $5,000 a year that Mayor Heiselman receives from the City of Kingston.

I believe that I am entitled to a share of the relief bread business in the City of Kingston. Perhaps it would interest Mayor Heiselman to know that about 20 men who live in the city of Kingston are employed by out-of-town bakeries. These men support families the same as I, and are faced with similar expenses, and they deserve the right to have a share of this business.

This interpretation of the mayor is a very bad policy for the City of Kingston.

This ruling of the mayor is a very narrow one. He is now endeavoring to tell us what to eat, from whom we must buy, and almost telling us how to think.

I believe that if Mayor Heiselman had ever been engaged in his own business and thus learn how difficult it is to earn a living, then perhaps he would be more understanding.

The mayor has been trying to induce industries to locate in the City of Kingston. Why chase out industries which are established here and which are benefiting the city.

Yours in behalf of a better Kingston,
RAYMOND SCHULER,

Dinners Are Sold By Their Eye Appeal

Family Appetites Grow When A Cook Knows Her Garnishes

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE (AP Feature Service Writer)

Appeal to the eye — well as the palate—that's what clever cooks are doing.

Little garnish tricks give dressiness to the plainest of meat and fish dishes. A frilly green, a gayly colored vegetable or a spicy fruit adds sparkle to the piece de resistance.

Shiny, browned apricots are just made for pan-broiled pork chops or veal steak. When the meat is nearly done cover it with apricot halves (hollow sides down), sprinkle with brown sugar and a little lemon juice and cinnamon. Broil or bake until the apricots are well glazed—it will take about 10 minutes. Baste three times with apricot juice or any other juice.

Remove rind from a slice of juicy-cured ham which is half an inch thick. Heat a copper-clad stainless steel frying pan very hot and place ham there to brown quickly on both sides. Cover with a lid. Lower heat and cook 20 minutes. Add two tablespoons of boiling water if ham seems quite dry while cooking.

Grapes may be prepared while the ham is frying. To glaze, make a sugar-water syrup, using one cup of sugar to one-half cup of water; add a few cloves to taste, drop in the grapes and when syrup has thickened and grapes are glazed to your liking, put them around the ham...and supper is served.

Codfish balls, fish loaves or timbales are set off by lemon cups filled with relish, salad or sauce.

Save the lemon shells after cooking, notch the edges for a fancy touch, and fill with a piquant cabbage salad for codfish balls, pickle relish for fish loaves and olive tomato sauce for timbales. Top each with a parsley sprig or some cress.

Beef cups filled with horseradish pickle blend, make grand partners for steak. Cook medium-sized Sliced Ham has eye-appeal of its own, but when it's combined with glazed grapes in a coppery skillet, the attraction grows.

beets. When cool, remove and dice the centers and mix in some horseradish, pickle and salad dressing. Fill the beet cups when ready to serve the steak.

Certain meats seem to need the tartness supplied by glazed fruits. For something really delicious six slices of fruit (pears, peaches, pineapple or plums) in three tablespoons of fat, heated in a frying pan. Pour in 1 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1-3 cup broken sugar. Slip under the broiler or in the oven for five minutes to cook through. Center each with a cube of currant, cranberry or mint jelly and circle a platter of fried chicken, broiled ham or roast of lamb.

Hot carrot strings, latticed beets and turnip balls dusted with chopped parsley or cress are vegetable garnishes that supply vitamins as well as color contrast. They go very well with creamed meats, meat loaf, breaded steaks or broiled fish.

Bananas can be used as a potato substitute as well as a garnish for steaks, roasts or meat cakes. Dip peeled bananas in orange juice with a little lemon juice in it (1 tablespoon of lemon for each four of orange). Sprinkle with brown sugar and a small amount of mace. Broil or bake for 10 minutes. Baste several times with meat drippings.

TENDERAY DOES IT FORST guarantees IT

In the seventy years that the Forst family have prepared meats, they have installed every proven modern device for the perfection of their products and service. But, never in all those seventy years has anything so revolutionary as the TENDERAY process been built into their modern plant. This truly marvelous process, is applied to all Forst Formost beef and the beef is inspected and passed by the

FORST'S Formost TENDERAY "tender beef"

It's sensational beauty shop gossip. Think of it! Susie So-and-so's husband was actually caught smiling this morning. It's the first time in years that he's looked halfway human. And it's all directly traceable to that Tenderay steak he had for dinner last night.

Tender? You bet it was! Just like all Tenderay beef, for science has at last developed a method which Makes fine fresh beef always tender!

It is sure, it is uniform, and uses no chemicals or mechanical treatment. Tenderay is nature's own way of making good beef tender, brought up to date by modern science

And Tenderay costs no more!

Yes, it's hard to believe but you pay no more for this finer, better beef; more juicy, tasty, with more mellow, luscious flavor. Just go to any store which displays the Tenderay emblem—ask for Tenderay beef—anything from a fine thick steak to those economy cuts which are so delicious when really tender—and enjoy good beef at its best.

TENDERAY is a patented process developed by the research laboratories of Westinghouse, in cooperation with food scientists of the world-famous Mellon Institute.

It uses no chemicals, no mechanical treatments. It is nature's own way of making beef consistently tender and delicious, brought up to date by modern science.

2 Steaks, roasts, or economy cuts—ask your butcher for Tenderay. It costs no more than ordinary, everyday beef, but it has that luscious tenderness you could get before only in costly, specially aged beef.

Take Part Confidently In Your Club Affairs

Know Duties of Officers

Called upon to take a post in your club, do you hesitate, murmur confusedly, "Me? Oh, I wouldn't know where to begin!"

By knowing pointers on office-holding, committee work, money-raising, you can distinguish yourself in your club.

As a secretary, one of your duties is keeping the minutes. A simple form shows how. Start with "A meeting (specify type of meeting: regular, called or annual) of the Y Club was called to order at two o'clock on March 7, 1940, at the home of Mrs. Smith, by the president, Mrs. Jones."

Appointed chairman of the program committee? When you have a woman guest speaker, courteous to see she receives a corsage. Always write the speaker a note of appreciation after a talk.

A problem to raise money? One of the many successful money-making ideas is "A Silver Tea." Arrange an exquisite formal tea, have your admission price any silver coin.

Win success for your club, yourself, with the help of our 32-page booklet. Tells how to organize a club, draw up a constitution. Explains club etiquette, duties of officers, members, committees. Has a sample budget, many clever ways to raise money.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of CLUBWOMAN'S GUIDE to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Rev. William Brown Speaks at Luncheon

The Rev. William A. Brown, classmate of the Rev. Fred H. Denning, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, who is spending this week in Kingston at the Methodist parsonage, spoke at the Lenten luncheon Wednesday at the Y. W. C. A.

Dr. Brown gave a series of reminiscences which he termed as "meaningful experiences" of his missionary work in the Pearl Islands in the eastern seas, giving particular mention to the Pampanangs.

"There are no heathens in the world," said Dr. Brown, "for they are all made of the same image." With examples of touching incidents encountered during his missionary work, Dr. Brown brought out his idea that the love of Christ and the spirit of Jesus makes all the world kin.

He also traced the life of four native girls who became converted and went to a missionary school in Manila. Of these four girls, one had since died a "happy death," the second is a matron in the largest training school on the Philippine Islands, the third is in charge of all the work of the young people for one of the large provinces and the fourth is the wife of a missionary and mistress of a manse.

The Rev. Dr. Brown was introduced by Mrs. A. Noble Graham, president of the Board of Directors of the Y. W. C. A. The invocation was asked by the Rev. Mr. Denning. Preceding the talk Mrs. LeRoy Wood sang, "Open the Gates of the Temple," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Harry Smith.

The luncheon was attended by some 40 members and friends of the Y. W. C. A. The arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Theron L. Culver and Mrs. Leonard T. Flicker.

The Current Events Group of the College Women's Club will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. John L. MacKinnon, 181 Manor avenue.

Miss Fritz Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Smith of Woodstock, and Harold Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Child's Birthday and Shower Are Only Parties Demanding Presents

No Reason for Those Going Empty-handed on Other Occasions to Feel Embarrassed

A shower party and a child's birthday party are about the only parties I can think of to which all the guests are really obliged to take presents. There are of course many occasions when those who want to give a present do so. For example, the best friends of a "bride and groom" take presents to every one of their anniversary celebrations. But even though a party is given, it is not necessary to give a present unless one wants to. And there is no reason, therefore, why any one arriving empty-handed should feel embarrassed.

The conventions of courtesy demand that a gift package be opened by the guest of honor as soon as it is handed to her. Not to do so would imply lack of appreciation—even of interest. This specifically answers a letter from a "silver" bride who lately celebrated her wedding anniversary, and who says: "Some of our friends brought presents and others didn't and I was afraid of hurting the feelings of those who didn't. So I put the packages aside and opened them after the party was over and every one had gone. My husband thinks this was more rude to the people who brought things than it was kind to the people who didn't."

As I have already answered, her intentions were kind and her impulse understandable, but her husband was right.

Refreshments At a Dance

Dear Mrs. Post: Our small graduating class is giving a dance at the country club. What is the least we could serve in the way of refreshments during the evening?

Answer: First of all, a big bowl of something cold to drink during the dancing, such as lemonade or any other iced soft drink. Later in the evening, it seems to me, that ice cream and small cakes are as satisfactory at grown-up parties as at younger ones. Hot chocolate and sandwiches are also popular, but less so after dancing than ice cream.

Table Decorations

Dear Mrs. Post: May a candle-labrum be used on the dining table? I have had a five-branch candlelabrum given to me and wondered if I could stand this in the center of the table and use it. I have never seen just one alone used, but certainly the light from five candles would be ample for my table. If you say it's suitable, then do you suggest standing it the long way of the table or cross-wise?

Answer: If all five candle holders are in a row, then this candlelabrum is probably an ecclesiastical design, intended to stand flat against a background and will probably look better on a side-board or console table. But you may of course use it in the center of your dining table if you think it looks well. Your opinion as to its effectiveness is really the only answer to your question. Stood the long way of the table, it will probably look better than cross-wise.

Navy Second in Southbridge Is Out for Record

Comparison of Sea Forces Shows Strength of United States.

WASHINGTON. — The United States navy as of November 15 ranked second in total "under-age" combatant tonnage, but fifth in the number of under-age ships, the department revealed in making public pictographs, as support for the contention of Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, that a big navy is needed to repel a possible hostile coalition. In under-age tonnage our navy on November 15 was smaller by about 180 tons than the combined fleets of Germany and Japan. In number of new ships Japan and Germany had 705 units compared with 150 for the United States.

The principal reason for our low rating in total number of combatant ships is said to be the preponderant number of submarines and destroyers in some of the other navies where such craft are of particular value.

Possible Coalition Weighed.

It is the possible coalition situation which stands out more than any other one thing. In the event Japan and Germany allied themselves and attacked us simultaneously, a development envisioned in some quarters, the United States would be able to put on the sea modern under-age units of a total tonnage of 1,021,270 tons as against a combined tonnage of such units for Japan and Germany of 1,021,451 tons, or virtually an equal amount.

In battleships the Japanese have nine and the Germans five, all under-age, a total of 14, the combined tonnage being 354,070. In number of such units the United States also has 14.

In aircraft carriers the United States has in commission five units of an aggregate tonnage, all under-age, of 154,000, as against six for Japan of a combined tonnage of 113,470 and two for Germany of 38,500, or 151,970 for a Japanese-German coalition.

The United States has in commission 18 heavy and 15 light cruisers of a total tonnage of 294,875 tons, while the Japanese have 12 heavy and 15 light units of a 205,335 tonnage. The German strength is 65,600 tons, of which two units are of the heavy and six of the light category. The superiority of the United States, measured against Germany and Japan, is 33,720 tons.

Under-Age Destroyers.

In under-age destroyers the American total is 55 units of an aggregate tonnage of 85,910 tons as against 84 destroyers of a total tonnage of 113,476 for Japan and 34, of 46,466 tons for Germany. Add Italy and the tonnage is increased by 98 under-age destroyers of an aggregate tonnage of 110,107 tons.

In the matter of under-age submarine strength the United States has 27 units of 41,120 tons while Japan has 35 of 52,432 tons and Germany, which features smaller units, has 71 of 31,282 tons. The combined submarine strength, measured in under-age units only, of Germany and Japan is 84,190 tons, more than twice that of the United States.

New tonnage actually under construction for the United States, including eight battleships, totals 491,860 tons. The known Japanese total, including four battleships, is 268,660 tons, while that of Germany, including three battleships and about a hundred submarines, is 266,988 tons, a combined tonnage exceeding that for the United States by more than 43,000 tons.

For Great Britain the building total, including nine battleships, is 730,095 tons; for France, including four battleships, 271,052 tons, and for Italy, including four battleships, 242,530 tons.

Russian Determines Ages Of Children by Fingers

MOSCOW. — A method of determining the age of children through X-ray photographs of hands is claimed by Prof. V. Kuznetsov, Soviet medical expert, who was recently awarded the degree of doctor of medical science by the board of the Second Moscow Medical Institute.

Professor Kuznetsov photographed the hands of 558 children and reported that the ages of juveniles between 10 and 14 may be determined almost unerringly by changes that take place in phalanges of the fingers. He is now trying to extend his method to determining age up to the eighteenth year.

Save Those Tea Leaves

Don't throw away your tea leaves. Save them. They come in mighty handy about the household. For example, they're excellent to sprinkle over the rug, to gather and settle the dust when you're sweeping. Kept for several days and then infused with boiling water and strained, the resulting liquid makes a useful polish for mirrors, windows, glasses, varnished wood and furniture. And it costs nothing. Also tea leaves boiled up in the fish pan will remove the smell of fish.

Y.W.C.A. Budget Drive

The annual budget drive of the Y. W. C. A. is scheduled to be held from April 1 to 8, the goal to be $7,500 to carry the work for the coming fiscal year. Mrs. John B. Sterley, finance chairman of the association, will be the director of the campaign, and she is being assisted in initial plans by the following members of the finance committee: Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Mrs. Charles Arnold, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Mrs. Lloyd LeFevre, Mrs. Myron Teller, Mrs. Harry H. Flemming, Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler, Mrs. Alva Staples, Mrs. James Betts, Jr., and Mrs. George Ross. This committee will be enlarged and will include team captains and lieutenants, yet to be appointed.

'Typical' American Home Would Cost Under $6,000

When you mention owning a new home to the average American, he or she thinks in terms of a house costing less than $6,000, and contemplating between 10 and 15 years to pay off the debt. And one out of every two thinks that a down payment of 25 per cent or more is advisable.

These are some of the things that the committee on trends of the United States Savings and Loan League has found out in a recent questionnaire on public attitudes. Surveys were made of the attitudes of people picked at random, including 5 per cent factory workers, 20 per cent proprietors of businesses, 20 per cent housewives, 16 per cent salesmen, and miscellaneous employed others. The eastern seaboard and midwestern metropolises and the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast area were scenes of the questionnaire.

Results of the last six years' emphasis by government agencies on the monthly repayment home mortgage show prominently in the survey. Nine out of every 10 persons would prefer an amortized mortgage in financing their homes. The league committee points out that before the depression only those who were borrowing money from the thrift and home financing institutions—about one-third of all the mortgagors—were making steady payments to reduce their debt on the home.

In the western area, 3.5 per cent of those interviewed would plan for homes costing less than $4,000 if they were going to buy or build, while 46.8 per cent would have places costing between $4,000 and $6,000. The replies from the East coast show a slightly higher percentage in the group which would plan a $6,000 to $8,000 home, but still 22.4 per cent would want a less-than-$4,000 home and another 39.5 per cent think in terms of a $4,000 to $6,000 house.

Famed Railway Train Makes Its Final Run

A dramatic chapter in the history of western railroads was brought to a close recently when the famed Deep Creek railroad made its last run from Wendover, Utah, to Gold Hill, Nev., and return.

Back in 1885, the train with one main car—combination passenger and baggage with two iron stoves for winter warmth—and a few ore cars traversed the 44.8 miles of track twice a day, six times a week.

In recent years the railroad ran only once a week, but its last trip revived memories of palmier days when it was the "streamliner" of transportation in two states.

Historically, the road was the last link with the feverish past of the area. It connected the transcontinental pony express with the desert region. The first telegraph line across the nation was built along the company's right-of-way. Later, the Lincoln highway was built along the same route.

The line was abandoned by the Western Pacific Railroad company, its owner, because of financial loss. The line had been virtually non-productive since exhaustion of silver and gold ore from the famed Gold Hill mining camp, western terminal of the line.

Until the last trip, Mason Moore, of Wendover, Utah, was road manager, superintendent, roadmaster, conductor, clerk, stenographer and track laborer.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Windows Beautify Home

Appearance of an older home may be changed to a great extent by adding extra windows and permitting sunlight to brighten up dark corners. Frequently a seldom-used room may be converted into a sun room by substituting a row of windows for the outside wall, while the living room of most older homes will usually benefit by the addition of one or more windows. Cutting additional windows in a house does not necessarily weaken it if the windows are placed where structural members are not affected. A reliable builder should be consulted in planning the improvement.

Cleaning Sponges

When sponges become soiled, they can be more of a hindrance than a help in cleaning. They will leave unsightly smudges if you're not careful. To clean sponges, soak for an hour in boiling hot water to which a tablespoon of ammonia has been added to each quart of water. Then squeeze the sponge as dry as you can get it. Place the sponge in fresh warm ammonia water (the proportion, a teaspoonful to a quart). Work the sponge around with your hands and rinse in plenty of cold water.

Pussy Cat Is Losing

Renown as a Mouser

PHILADELPHIA.—After centuries of dominance in the rodent-catching field, the pussy cat is on his way out as protector of the pantry.

And what's more, cats never were good mousers, according to J. C. Kopf, manager of an exterminator company. They're lazy, self-satisfied and too much inclined to fraternize with their traditional nibbling enemies, he explained.

Chemical warfare has supplanted the cat nowadays to an almost overwhelming extent.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 7 (AP)—The rallying tide slowed somewhat in today's stock market but many leaders continued to edge upward.

Early gains of fractions to a point were reduced or cancelled later by profit taking, with volume dwindling. Near the final hour prices were slightly mixed. Transfers were at the rate of about 700,000 shares.

Recent narrowness of trends, brokers said, inspired some traders to cash in at the start on the idea the swing might be short-lived. Speculative sentiment, at the same time, was believed to have improved as the result of a slackening of the business and economic and European national politics and European war purchases would take a turn for the better.

Bonds pointed higher, especially foreign dollar loans. Commodities inclined to tilt moderately forward. Overseas markets steadied.

There was an assortment of new 1940 highs among shares. These included United Drug, National Tea, du Pont, American Telephone, Glenn Martin and Eastern Air Lines.

Favorable share performers were Bethlehem, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, Loft, Dow Chemical, N. Y. Central and Standard Oil of N. J.

In the curb support was accorded Consolidated Gas & Electric of Baltimore, American Cyanamid, B. American Gas and Electric Bond & Share.

Upward Movement In Security Prices

There was a fairly decisive movement upward in security prices on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday, with volume at 860,000 shares.

Aircraft issues, motors and numerous private industrials were in the upward movement, steels made some progress and there was increased interest in the rails. During the day 67 different issues registered new highs for this year, while 19 made new lows.

Industrial issues made their best gain in nearly a month, the Dow Jones averages showing a net advance of 1.08 points for the day, closing at 147.97, best level of the day. Rails made a gain of .33, to 31.01 and even the utilities did better, advancing .15, to close at 24.33.

Commodity prices move slowly upward in early trading, but with wheat turning reactionary sold off toward the close with the index showing a slight loss for the day. Wheat advanced as much as one cent a bushel, but profits were canceled on liquidation and profit taking.

Cotton futures turned downward and closed with losses of five to ten points. Sugar futures moved higher; only reported sale of raws was 2,000 tons of Philippines at 2.86 cents a pound, a one-point advance. Rubber was independently firm and it was noted that the movement was accompanied by active factory purchases of spot rubber.

Bonds showed slight gains and with institution investors active on the buying side U. S. Treasuries were higher. There was interest in speculative rails, especially defaulted roads likely to emerge from reorganization proceedings in the fairly near future.

On March 1, according to Iron Age, there were 157 blast furnaces active in the United States, 66.5 per cent of the 236 furnaces available. On February 1, 177 furnaces were active.

The SEC has issued show cause orders against two more utility holding companies, making seven companies to date which have been ordered to report as to how they intend to comply with the integration clause of the Holding Co. Act of 1935. Latest cited are Commonwealth & Southern and Standard Power & Light.

Earnings of Johns-Manville Corp. showed a sharp jump in 1939, net being $1,164,719, equal after charges and payment on preferred to $4.28 on common shares. Compares with net of $1,445,302, or $1.09 a share in 1938. American Sugar Refining Co. had net of $2,710,088 after taxes and charges in 1939, vs. $407,088 in preceding year. Reynolds Metals Co. had 1939 net of $1,526,891 vs. $571,115 in 1938. Hershey Chocolate, net of $6,233,304, vs. $4,126,254 in previous year. Easy Washing Machine, net income in 1939 of $297,765, vs. net loss in 1938 of $352,041.

Report of Bridgeport Machine for 1939 shows net loss for the year of $200,792, vs. net income in 1938 of $13,184. Annual report of President Buchow, issued yesterday, stated that since December 31, 1939, a bank loan of $150,000 had been repaid.

Palm Tree Museum

Plans are being made in Miami for construction of a museum to house a unique collection of products derived from palm trees. The collection, being increased gradually, now is displayed in two rooms at the University of Miami. It includes old Buddhist books written and illuminated on leaves of the Borassus palm, carved drinking vessels and dishes, rope from palm fiber and other oddities. One case contains cans of food products derived from palm trees. A large mat of palm fiber, soft and flexible as a wool blanket, and a group of poisoned arrows and spears whose shafts are made of palm fronds were obtained for the collection in Samoa. Pictures of palms in their native setting in many parts of the world adorn the walls of the two rooms. The pictures were donated by the U. S. department of agriculture.

French Use Dogs to Search for Enemy

Open Recruiting Station For Army Canines.

PARIS.—The French army has opened a recruiting station for army dogs.

Dogs will be accepted either as gifts or on loan for the duration of the war. They will be concentrated at a training camp, where they will receive special instruction, which, in a few weeks, will turn them into specialists for patrol work, Red Cross, dispatch carriers, or for observation duty.

An army order specifies that dogs should be neither too small nor too big, but be healthy, alert and intelligent.

Alsation police and sheep dogs are preferred because they have a natural camouflage color and because their natural talents are nearest to those of wolves.

During training each dog is handled by only one soldier, who later controls him at the front.

Dogs used on patrol duty at night are trained to whine when the enemy approaches. Dogs on observation duty are taught to go hunting for Germans, and when they find them to return to their posts and guide troops to the spot.

Dispatch carriers are trained to run from advance posts to company, battalion or regimental headquarters, making use of trenches or covered terrain where they escape being seen or shot.

They carry messages in a pouch worn around the collar.

Red Cross dogs are trained to find wounded soldiers and lead stretcher bearers to them.

If there are enough volunteers France will maintain an army of 1,000 dogs.

Insects Fought 3 Miles In Sky by U. S. Planes

WASHINGTON.—The United States is carrying on an aerial war less spectacular than Europe's, but vitally important to this country's welfare.

Government planes have captured thousands of "enemies" nearly three miles off the ground. These "enemies" and their kind annually cause millions of dollars' damage to growing crops.

The agriculture department has a fleet of planes that searches the skies for plant insects. Some of the planes are in the air almost every day of the year trapping the pests.

From the captured insects entomologists are able to gather valuable new information on the habits, and particularly on the spread, of some of the destructive crop pests.

Many insects fly long distances and thus spread infestation over large areas. Others soar high and then let the prevailing wind carry them. By learning their direction and approximate numbers, the department is able to chart their spread and take action against them in new areas.

Leased Ranch Extends Over Aleutian Island

KODIAK, ALASKA.—C. C. Eubank of Ogden, Utah, believes he operates the biggest sheep ranch on the North American continent.

He holds a lease from the United States government on all of Umnak island in the Aleutian archipelago. His domain is 85 miles long and in some places 11 miles wide.

Over this "pasture" range 12,000 to 16,000 sheep, 800 to 1,000 reindeer and large numbers of horses and cattle.

The island's population includes only Eubank's employees and about 85 Alaskan natives.

The island contains three mountains—one of them 7,900 feet high. Last year according to the president and general manager of the Aleutian Live Stock company, the firm marketed 103,000 pounds of wool.

Den of Foxes Lives High On Pheasant, Partridge

LUBEC, MAINE.—Foxes apparently have been living high in Maine.

When one den was dug out, hunters found the leg bands of 19 pheasants, also rabbit, partridge and woodcock bones, egg shells, the remains of several unidentified birds and animals and skeletons of chickens and wild ducks.

Sunglasses Priced at $2,000

NEW YORK.—A pair of sunglasses reported to be the most expensive set ever made, are set with small diamonds around the rims and with a two-carat, square-cut diamond in the center. The price was $2,000.

Time Hangs Heavy In Scales of Justice

TULSA, OKLA.—Even judges can be mistaken.

YOUR NAME, PLEASE!—This is William Austin, director of the U. S. census and unwitting figure in the lively debate provoked by inclusion of personal income questions in the 1940 census sheets. He testified before the senate commerce subcommittee. Attack on the income questions has been led by Sen. Charles Tobey (R.-N. H.).

A DREAM IS BORN—More eloquent than words is the wistful expression of Jackie Kehs, 3, of Freehold, N. J., studying a miniature model of a D-16 Pennsylvania engine at National Model show in Philadelphia.

Canned Tomatoes And Tomato Juice

The following statement concerning tomatoes has been prepared by the College of Home Economics at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York:

It is difficult to conceive of any family larger than does not have quantities of canned tomatoes and tomato juice on its shelves at all times. They are a great addition to any meal and have many ways of appearing on the daily menu in delectable form. Tomatoes canned or tomato juice may be used to give color and flavor to colorless and bland foods such as rice, macaroni, etc.; they make tasty salads, and they give variety of serving to other vegetables, as well as appearing in desserts and cocktails.

Tomatoes are important in the diet. They are an inexpensive and good source of vitamins A and C and in addition they contain small amounts of other vitamins and minerals, including iron. The vitamin C content is about one-third of the orange, and the caloric value about one-half.

The nutritive value of the canned tomato is best before reheating but a small amount of heat does not seem to deteriorate the vitamin C content to any great extent. Most nutritionists recommend that tomatoes find a place in the meals of individuals at least four or five times a week.

The following recipes give a variety of ways to use canned tomatoes and tomato juice:

Tomatoes Au Gratin
Six medium sized tomatoes or two cups drained canned tomatoes, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon sugar, one cup grated American cheese, one cup buttered bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon salt.

Place the tomatoes in a baking dish. Sprinkle with the salt and sugar and dot with the butter. Add grated cheese and cover with the buttered crumbs. Bake one-half hour in moderate oven. This may be baked in ramekins.

Tomato Dumplings
One cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half cup milk, 1 and one-half teaspoon salt, one quart tomatoes, one tablespoon sugar, six tablespoons butter.

Sift flour, baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt together. Cut in two tablespoons butter and add milk, mixing with knife. Season tomatoes with sugar, one teaspoon salt and four tablespoons butter and let boil rapidly. Dip spoon into hot tomatoes and then into dumplings. Drop dumplings on top of tomatoes, cover and steam 20 to 30 minutes, without uncovering.

Tomato Souffle
Two eggs, one-half cup tomato pulp, one-half cup milk, two tablespoons flour, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt.

Make white sauce of flour, butter and milk. Add well beaten egg yolks, salt and tomato pulp. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and bake until firm in buttered ramekins which have been placed in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven.

Rotarians Enjoy Moving Pictures

Two moving pictures, "The World of Tomorrow" and "Progress," were shown at the Rotary luncheon on Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Bringing to the screen complete details of the Cyclorama, the sound picture of the General Motors exhibit at the New York World's Fair proved very entertaining.

The second depicting the process and progress made in the improvement in the automobiles and highways was also thoroughly enjoyed. These movie productions were secured through the courtesy of Rotarian Emil Boessneck.

Harry L. Hommedieu is the program chairman for the month of March. Sam Scudder presided in the absence of President Van Ingen.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)
Avalon, Calif.—Gaby Hartnett, the Chicago Cubs' veteran catcher-manager, is going into action sooner than he expected—all because of the Finnish war. He hadn't planned to play until the Cubs reached San Antonio, Tex., en route home, but agreed to appear along with eight other members of his team in a game at Los Angeles Sunday for the benefit of the Finnish relief fund.

Lakeland, Fla.—The Detroit Tigers are expected to start Rookie Dick Conger, Los Angeles policeman's son and ex-college star, on the mound against Brooklyn in their first exhibition game Sunday. Second Baseman Charley Gehring probably won't play because of a lame back.

Miami Beach, Fla.—The Phillies probably will carry nine pitchers this season, Manager Doc Prothro has revealed, leaving room for three catchers, six infielders and five outfielders. Thirty-one players have reported at camp and others are expected momentarily. Two, infielders, Gus Suhr and Roy Hughes, are negotiating with President Gerry Nugent for more money.

Orlando, Fla.—The Washington Senators see a chance of reviving a deal with the Detroit Tigers that would send Shortstop Cecil Green to Detroit for either Hank Greenberg or Rudy York now that Charley Gehring is ailing.

Pasadena, Calif.—Manager Jimmy Dykes is toying with a batting order he says would give the Chicago White Sox as much power as any team in the American League except the Yankees. He plans to lead off with Jackie Hayes, if the second sacker overcomes his knee trouble and follow with six potential 300 sluggers—Joe Kuhel, Mike Kreevich, Taft Wright, Luke Appling, Julius Solters and Eric McNair.

Tampa, Fla.—Vince DiMaggio finally has satisfied himself why Paul Derringer of the Cincinnati Reds is a great pitcher. "Gee," exclaimed Vince, "he threw me a change of pace when I was ahead of him—two balls and no strikes."

Winter Haven, Fla.—Babe Young, still the fair haired boy in Manager Bill Terry's plans for first base on the New York Giants, sprang a double and two triples on the doubters in a camp game yesterday and right away the hold-out stock of Zeke Bonura tail-spinned. The game furnished another happy angle for the Giants, because Carl Hubbell made his first pitching start and worked three scoreless innings, facing only eleven men and allowing one hit.

HERE'S HOW SMOKERS' SECURITY WORKS

Save your empty cigarette packages, cigar bands, tobacco tins or wrappers—no matter where you purchased same and no matter what the brand.

Take your empty cigarette packages to "Smokers' Security Service" located in any one of these three drug stores: Van's, 36 John St., McCrider's, 634 Broadway, and Weber's, 55 Broadway.

Give the Smokers' Security Service one cent for each empty cigarette package and he will give you Smokers' Security Scrip for the full amount you paid for each package.

For example: If you paid fifteen cents for your cigarettes you will receive upon payment of one cent, scrip to the amount of fifteen cents.

You may take this scrip to any one of the sponsors mentioned on the reverse side of scrip and they will honor same for percentage opposite name on scrip.

For example: In most instances you can use one cent scrip on ten cent purchase, or ten cents in scrip can be used on a dollar purchase with ninety cents in cash.

Your purchases can be as large or small as you see fit. You are not required to make any specific amount of purchase.

It is to your advantage to use this scrip as quickly as possible.

The representative of the Smokers' Security Service at the drug stores will be pleased to explain the plan in detail if further explanation is necessary.

You can secure the Smokers' Security Scrip from any of the three drug stores from 12 noon to 6 p. m. from Monday to Saturday, inclusive—Adv.

Golden Glovers Battle for Titles

New York, March 7 (AP)—The inter-city golden gloves finals here March 18 may not produce another Joe Louis or another Barney Ross, but 38,000 persons who saw the eastern finals here and the western finals in Chicago last night know that they'll produce their quota of thrills.

For in both cities last night the winners of the divisional laurels slugged their way to titles in a manner that leaves no doubt that the "main event" here 11 days hence will be as good as a boxing show as fighting men can produce.

The headliner in the Chicago show was Joe Maxim of Cleveland, a middleweight, while in New York they're talking about Ray Robinson, a tap-dancing negro who with a lethal punch who scored eight knockouts in slugging his way to the lightweight title.

In the important heavyweight class the one Chicagoan watch since Joe Louis skyrocketed from the golden gloves to the world title is Chicago's Cornelius Young, winner of the 160-pound crown two years ago.

Hell meet Ted Wint, a British West Indian, and Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who was the surprise of the night by virtue of outpointing Joe Glombeck of Charlotte, N. C. in last night's show in Madison Square Garden.

A standing room crowd of 21,000 saw the Chicago show while the Garden rocked to the cheers of a near-capacity mob of 17,000.

In New York the team title went to Philadelphia with 25 points, trailed by New York with 14, Westchester (N. Y.) county with 11 and Buffalo with 8. Andy Sfriso, husky truck driver, gave the Philadelphia squad its fifth championship by winning an easy decision over Ed Heininger, East Chester, N. Y., in the lightweight heavyweight battle.

Bowling Congress Starts Tonight

Detroit, March 7 (AP)—The fortieth annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress, a record-breaking affair even before the first ball rolls down an alley, opens a two-month stand tonight at the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Bowlers from all parts of the United States and from far-away Hawaii comprise the entry list of more than 30,000 scheduled to roll before the close of the tourney May 7.

"This is by all odds our greatest tournament," said Elmer H. Baumgarten, A.B.C. secretary, as workers put the finishing touches on the 40 alleys of polished maple. "We have shattered all records—marks that were just dreams a few years ago."

The list of 6,073 team entries from 729 cities gave point to his remark. The previous record was the list of 4,857 teams entered in the 1938 tournament at Chicago. The doubles event has attracted 10,398 entries, the singles 20,874.

New Warbler Discovered In West Virginia Woods

PITTSBURGH—A new bird, a warbler, has been discovered by a Wheeling, W. Va., school teacher, according to the publication, The Cardinal, printed by the Audubon Society of Sewickley Valley.

Closely resembling the parula warbler, the bird was found by Karl W. Haller along with J. Lloyd Poland in the woods near Martinsburg, Berkeley county, W. Va.

Haller said he caught the warbler, believing it to be a parula, but then he discovered "it could be neither a parula or a yellow-throated warbler, although its appearance to some extent suggested both species." Later he caught a female.

The bird is gaily gray with a lemon yellow throat and breast. Haller said he would name the bird "Sutton's Warbler," in honor of Dr. George M. Sutton of Bethany, W. Va., and Cornell University.

Jeghers Has Close Call, but Wins

Walt Jeghers bested Mike Marchuk in a city tournament affair last night 100 to 89, but Mike put up a stubborn battle and it was not until the last ball was pocketed that Jeghers was sure of his victory. Walt had 16 for his high and Mike had one less.

Tonight Ed Benoit opposes Tony Pino.

Two Factions In Labor Party

The fight in the ranks of the organization known as the American Labor party is reflected in Ulster county, where the two factions have filed petitions naming candidates for party positions to be voted on at the spring primary and where, in addition, leaders of each faction have filed with the Board of Elections statements of objections against the petitions filed by their rivals, with the claim that they are illegal and should not be accepted by the board and the names placed on the primary ballot.

Jacob J. Schneider of Kingston for several years chairman of the organization in Ulster county, heads the "regulars," while Paul Marcus of Zena road, Woodstock, appears to be the leader of the opposing faction.

The Schneider petition purports to be signed entirely by residents of Kingston, with the exception of 17 signatures of residents of the Old Folks Home at Cottekill.

The Marcus petition purports to be signed by citizens from various sections of the county. One of the names from the town of Wawarsing is that of Harry Slutsky of Ellenville, who is named as a state committeeman on the Schneider petition. Another is Pearl T. Levine of Ellenville.

Twenty to 30 objections are listed by the rival leaders and charges include fraud, forgery, signatures illegal for various reasons, such as non-residence, lack of party enrollment, duplication and the like.

The Board of Elections will meet at 11 o'clock Friday morning, at which time the objections on both sides have been notified to appear and state their cases more fully.

The two nominating petitions filed list the following candidates for party offices:

Long Time Soil Program Fixed

Yearly Tenant Changes Are Found to Be Conducive To Erosion.

WASHINGTON.—The agriculture department plans to broaden its nation wide program to halt soil erosion, which already has damaged half of all the land in the United States.

Farmers and soil specialists meeting here recently with the bureau of agricultural economics, soil conservation service and the forest service developed a three-point program for the corn-belt states.

The group agreed that if a maximum amount of soil erosion is to be accomplished on the nation's farms, additional emphasis should be placed on:

1. Long-term farm management planning.
2. Long-term tenure contracts to farm tenants.
3. Education to spread knowledge of mechanical and cultural erosion-control practices.

Yearly Cost Staggering.

H. H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service, reported that soil erosion is costing farmers at least $400,000,000 a year. At an average value of $50 an acre that means that 8,000,000 acres are being washed or blown away each year.

"Across the farm and range lands of the country," he said, "some 282,000,000 acres either have been ruined or severely damaged by soil erosion. On an additional 775,000,000 acres the process of erosion is actively under way."

Recommendations of the conference were intended to supplement the work of soil conservation districts organized under state laws in 36 states. There are more than 200 such districts covering approximately 120,000,000 acres. Claude R. Wickard, AAA north-central division director, told the conference that "surveys show that about 10 per cent of corn-belt soil has already suffered from severe erosion or has been essentially destroyed for cultivation as a result of erosion and removal of plant food."

Further Program Stressed.

"Although farmers have become more conscious of conservation during recent years and have adopted the practices of the AAA program to meet the problem, further efforts are required to maintain and restore the soil resources of corn-belt farms," Wickard said.

The conference adopted a report recommending (1) soil tests preceding applications of limestone, superphosphate and potash, (2) increase acreage in permanent pasture, (3) increased planting of trees and forest preservation and (4) county schools on controlling erosion by mechanical and cultural erosion-control practices.

The agricultural adjustment administration was requested to urge "that every farmer in 1940 and 1941 be encouraged to a greater extent to carry out the particular soil-conservation measure most needed and best suited to his farm." Farmers already using soil-erosion-control methods were urged to adopt at least one new method to serve as an example for neighbors.

College Students Convert

Junk Into Store Displays
BRIDGEWATER, MASS.—Junk for the dump yards is being used by State Teachers' college students here to provide window displays for local stores.

The work is part of the art appreciation course and the displays are offered free to any storekeeper who wants them.

One of the window displays consisted of old soup cans, which were dissected and then put together again in the form of two figures sipping soup from a bowl. The backdrop for the scene was a Venetian blind, rescued from an attic and painted green and silver.

Owl Becomes Mascot for

These School Children

SALINAS, CALIF.—In return for mice and other tidbits on the menu of the well-fed owl, Petey, a little gray-breasted owl, has become mascot for children at the Lincoln elementary school.

For three months, Petey has stayed in a bush near the school, clucking happily when approached by students, who intend to build him a home. Although Petey's vision during the daytime is none too good, gradually he is gaining the confidence due all mascots. There is little chance that he will leave his new job, for he has a broken wing and can't fly.

Hunt for Fortune

ST. CHARLES, MINN.—A search has been started through a ramshackle shed on the chance a recluse had left a hoarded fortune there when he died.

Fred C. Smith, 81, who lived alone after retiring as a school teacher at Tracy, Minn., was found dead in the shack where he lived for 30 years. About $80 in cash was found in his pockets.

Last spring the question about Buster Adams, Cardinals' outfielder, was whether the ankle he "busted" in 1938 with Sacramento would stand the gaff of a swift season's strain. Buster proved it last year and this spring he's the leading candidate for reversion to the Medwick-Moore-Slaughter trio.

the high school at Ottawa, Ill., then entered Knox College. It was at Knox that he acquired his liking for journalism, for he earned most of his way by "sticking type" in a Galesburg newspaper. He won the Illinois state intercollegiate oratorical contest in 1886 and a nine-state tourney in 1887, each time declaiming on the subject of John Brown.

After graduation from Knox in 1887 he entered Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, as a student in history, economics and politics with the idea of fitting himself for editorial work. He helped Prof. Richard T. Ely prepare a book on "Taxation in American States and Cities" and in 1889 became secretary of the State Charities Aid Association in New York. He founded and edited a magazine for this organization.

Teacher, Editing Go Together.
In 1891 he was elected president of Knox, only four years after his graduation from the school. He directed the college for seven years, meanwhile continuing as editor of the "Charities Review" and being active in the National Conference of Charities and Corrections.

He left Knox to take an editorial position with the S. S. McClure company in New York and edited Harper's Weekly, but after a year went to Princeton as first occupant of a new chair in politics. He taught there until 1903 when he was elected president of the College of the City of New York. Ten years later he was chosen commissioner of education of the state of New York, a post which he held until January 1, 1921, when he joined the editorial staff of the New York Times, later in 1937, becoming editor-in-chief of that paper.

There were some notable interludes in this record. In the autumn of 1910 he was Hyde lecturer at the Sorbonne in Paris and he followed this with a series of lectures in the winter of 1911 in various French provincial universities. He delivered similar courses at the University of North Carolina in 1922, at the University of Virginia in 1924, the University of Edinburgh in 1925, for the American Academy of Arts and Letters in 1930 and before the Pacific School of Religion in 1931.

He served on the 1913-14 board of arbitration in the eastern railway controversy, headed a world-wide educational commission to France in 1917 and in 1918 and 1919 was head of the American Red Cross work in Palestine and the Near East.

He held a long list of honorary degrees, including doctorates from Knox, Wisconsin, Princeton, Tulane, Williams, Dartmouth, Hobart, Columbia, Brown, New York, Michigan, Miami, Colby, Marietta, Colgate, Vermont, Trinity, Pennsylvania, Lafayette and Butler in this country and from Toronto and McGill in Canada.

Honored by Many Nations
Foreign governments which decorated him included Japan, France, Italy, Serbia, Poland, Lithuania, Finland, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Greece and Czechoslovakia.

He was a past president of the American Social Science Association and of the National Child Welfare Association, was long a member of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America and vice president of the Boy Scouts of Scotland.

Finley was married June 19, 1892, to Martha Ford Boyden of Sheffield, Ill. Two sons and two daughters were born to them.

Through the years Dr. Finley was in constant demand as a speaker at college commencement, social and economic conventions, historical gatherings and similar events. On the platform he was notable for forcefulness and clarity and for his loyalty to the calling which he preferred above others—newspaper work.

"Since I have become a journalist," he told a Brown University convocation in December, 1930, "I find that not even a research professor is more eager to know the truth or more eager to tell it than an editor and I find, too, that the editor usually is much better able to tell the truth than the research professor because he knows how to speak to the ordinary mind."

He called journalism "the religion of democracy" and added: "It is the continuing revelation and record of the Almighty's continuing revision of the earth and of His daily doings with the sons of men."

announced also that the work of getting 1940 Apple Blossom Festival on May 11 under way was endorsed by the business men.

During the past year the Uptown Business Men's Association working on an estimated budget of $3,000, had kept within the budget. Slightly over $3,000 was raised and expended by the group for the promotion of better business and Treasurer Al Flanagan reported a balance of $124 in the treasury. Dues in the association are now due.

No report was forthcoming from the committee appointed some time ago to investigate the matter of widening North Front street by cutting down on the width of the sidewalk to give additional street width to eliminate the bad congestion due to heavy traffic and double parking. The matter was to be taken up with the city officials.

Valuable Woodstock Parcel Is Bought by Karl Cousins

The Elwyn residence and Carey's shop are about 35 years old. The post office and food shop are of more recent construction.

For several years the second floor of the Carey shop was used by George Elwyn, former Woodstock supervisor, as an insurance office. Thomas Carey, father of Leon Carey, purchased the Elwyn insurance business and for some years also used the offices. About two years ago he moved his business to his residence near the Woodstock school.

Will Play in Movie

Hollywood, March 7 (AP)—Elsie Janis, stage and vaudeville star, has signed a contract with Republic Studio and will have a leading role in a war picture. Two decades ago, as a World War entertainer, she was widely known as "the sweetheart of the A. E. F." jail.

Sentence Suspended

Investigating a report to the sheriff's office about 9:30 last night that a man was getting in front of cars on 9-W about half a mile north of the By-Pass, Deputy Sheriffs Vredenburg and McCullough arrested Arnold Michaels, 51, of Lake Katrine on a charge of public intoxication. Michaels was arraigned before Justice Percy Bush of the town of Ulster, who gave him a suspended sentence of 10 days in the county jail.
